three separate hulls, the boat was built by the brothers in the backyard of the Fred Road residence. The boat will be towed to the Detroit River, where it will be launched and sailed to Toledo Beach Marina. (See story, picture on page 19.)

Townhouse rezoning rejected by council

A proposed rezoning to allow the construction of townhouses on a 35-acre tract on Ecorse Road in Romulus has been denied by the Romulus City Council.

The request was filed recently by Glenn E. Wash, president of the G. E. Wash Construction Co. of Detroit. It sought to rezone the land from R-1A (single family) to RM (multiple dwelling).

The land site is located on the south side of Ecorse Road between Wayne and Henry Ruff roads. The firm's plans as presented to city officials called for the construction of a $6 to $8 million townhouse project renting for $180 and up of Ecorse Road between Wayne and Henry Ruff roads, during the past 25 years.

At last Thursday's council meeting, Councilman James C. Stewart, in commenting on the rezoning request said, "After doing a lot of checking on the area, land site and reputation of the proposed builder, I feel the project is not feasible for the location." He introduced a motion that the rezoning petition be denied. Stewart was supported in his request for denial by Councilman Fred Junior Block.

"We were contacted about a year ago on the proposed development and were asked if we object to it. We asked to see the proposed plans and have seen them and approved the development as the best means of improving the area. Many of my neighbors think likewise," she added. "A private individual couldn't do what is being proposed by the G.E. Wash Co. I am certainly going to tell the city council what I think of their action," Mrs. Washington concluded.

City council criticized for hasty zoning denial

Romulus City Council action denying a rezoning request to make way for the construction of a $6 to $8 million townhouse project on Ecorse Road brought heated criticism from a spokesman representing area residents.

The criticism was voiced by Mrs. Theresa Washington of 6855 Dexter St., Romulus, who owns about 26 acres behind the proposed multiple dwelling project.

Mrs. Washington (no relations to G.E. Wash, proposed developer) said she was speaking for the majority of the area residents when she stated they are wholeheartedly in favor of the project which she claimed would improve a degenerating neighborhood.

From Romulus office

Council charges ousted official took property

Charles W. Hazen of Romulus, recently dismissed as Romulus director of planning and community development, will be requested to return city-

The council sent a directive to City Attorney John E. Young instructing him to notify Hazen by communication to return the property, consisting of files and reports relative to the City of Romulus.

Councilman Edmund Bizak charged at last Thursday's council session Hazen took out of his office a large box containing what Bizak understood was office files and reports, including books on Romulus sites and plans. The councilman was critical of the treasurer's office for given Hazen his final check "until he returns the property."

Councilman William M. Oakley suggested a survey be made to determine if any city-owned property was taken and ask Hazen to return them if the reports are correct. As to the check issuance, Oakley said Hazen received what he had coming in the way of salary.

Councilman Brooker R. Edwards reminded his council colleagues that all files are city property and if anything is missing, it should be returned.

Edwards requested the legal counsel be directed to act on the matter. He was supported by Bizak.

The council's roll call vote was 4-1. Councilman Fred Junior Block voted against the request.

Royce Smith defeated Owen captures Dem nod

Royce E. Smith, mayor of Belleville, was overwhelmingly defeated in his bid for election as state representative of the new 22nd legislative district in the Aug. 8 primary, vote results showed.

Smith, a Democrat and former member of the old Wayne County Board of Supervisors and Belleville mayor for five terms, received a total of 1,869 votes. His only opponent, Gary M. Owen, 27, a trustee on the Ypsilanti Township Board, received 3,331 votes.

Republican incumbent Roy Smith of Ypsilanti, running unopposed, received a total of 3,066 votes. The new 22nd legislative district embraces the areas of Belleville, Van Buren Township, parts of Ypsilanti and Ypsilanti township and Romulus.

The breakdown of the Washtenaw and Wayne County vote totals is as follows:

Royce E. Smith received 980 in Washtenaw and 889 in Wayne, while Owen got 2,654 in Washtenaw and 677 in Wayne County. Incumbent Roy Smith received 2,103 votes in Washtenaw and 963 in Wayne.

Voters in Belleville gave Smith 115; Owen, 51, and Roy Smith, 100.

Gun control law gets voters okay

By HENRY CANTIN

An ordinance prohibiting persons from discharging firearms capable of injuring people, property or animals within the city limits of Romulus was approved by Romulus voters in a special referendum election Aug. 8. The community's electorate approved the new gun control ordinance by a vote of 1,337—987, thus reinstating the firearms restriction previously adopted by the Romulus City Council on Jan. 27.

Run is a cooperative housing development).

These residents and their spokesmen appeared before the city council on several occasions in an effort to get council's approval on the gun law. They complained about the random shooting around their homes.

Residents living in townhouses adjacent to vacant land in the northwest side also complained bitterly about careless shooting of firearms in the city, particularly, they said, in the vicinity of their homes.

which the voters approved reads as follows:

"Ordinance No. 72-33, an ordinance to prohibit the discharge of certain firearms within the City of Romulus, except within certain permitted areas: to provide penalties for the violation thereof) and to provide for the licensing of rifle ranges, was adopted by the Romulus City Council on Jan. 27, 1972, and thereafter made subject to referendum. Shall such ordinance become effective. The citizens said yes.

Councilman James C. Stewart was the only council member to vote against the gun ban.

The official proposition

Action by the voters ended current attempts by Romulus' sportsmen to revoke the city shooting ban.

The new gun control law excludes persons firing in self defense or those persons shooting with approved and licensed gun, skeet or trap clubs or at a licensed range.

The new ordinance calls for prior written approval from the city's law enforcement bureau and the city clerk. These written approvals are required for people who wish to participate in public shooting exhibits in the community or those discharging firearms on their own property.

The ordinance also requires clubs and ranges to apply for a license annually.

A referendum to revoke the city council's action adopting the shooting ban was initiated last spring by Councilman James C. Stewart. He was supported by the Wayne County Sportsman's Club, Michigan Junior Archery Club and the local gun club.

Stewart a strenuous opponent to gun control, led an almost continuous battle opposing the new ordinance. He initiated the referendum hoping his supporters would win the fight.

"I don't believe in gun control and that's what this ordinance really is. The people in Romulus have the right to bear arms for the protection of life, liberty and happiness," said Stewart.

The fight to get some sort of gun control ordinance was initiated by residents of the Birch Run Cooperative Board of Directors and Councilman Edmund W. Bizak and Brooker R. Edwards (Birch

Ford wins 2-1 over Lubinski

William D. Ford, 45, of Taylor, incumbent Democratic congressman in the 15th Congressional District, won renomination to the U.S. Congress in the Aug. 8 primary election.

Ford, a Taylor attorney seeking his fourth term in office, won the primary by a nearly 2-1 majority over his Democratic opponent, Frank E. Lubinski of Dearborn Heights.

ERNEST C. FACKLER

WILLIAM D. FORD

Ford received a total of 21,021 votes in the Wayne County portion of the 15th District to 12,903 for Lubinski. Ford will face Republican Ernest C. Fackler of Dearborn Heights in the November general election, the lone Republican seeking the office. Fackler received 6,002 votes.

In Monroe County, which embraces some of the 15th District, Ford received 352 votes to Lubinski's 169 and Fackler's 116.

Ford bested Lubinski in most of the Western Wayne County communities with the exception of Garden City, where Lubinski outpolled Ford by 200 votes.

In Romulus, Ford got 1,108,

Lubinski received 870 and Fackler 383 votes.

A breakdown and official certification of the election returns by community was not yet available, according to the Wayne County Elections Commission.

Unofficial returns in Westland gave Ford his biggest vote count, beating Lubinski 4,146 - 1,472.

The City of Wayne gave Ford 1,296 and 371 for Lubinski. In Canton Township, Ford got 864 votes to 293 for Lubinski.

Fackler received his most votes from any community in Dearborn Heights, polling a total of 1,075.

In Belleville Ford got 140 votes, Lubinski received 32 and Fackler, 48.

The 15th Congressional District embraces the communities of Belleville, Brownstown Township, Dearborn Heights, Flat Rock, Garden City, Gibraltar, Huron Township, Inkster, Livonia, Rockwood, Southgate, Sumpter Township, Taylor, Van Buren Township, Wayne, Westland, Woodhaven and Raisinville Township and Ash Township in Monroe County.

Sabo wins nomination; to run against Lofback

Incumbent John N. Sabo Jr. of Taylor has won the Democratic nomination in the Wayne County commissioner's race for the 26th District in the Aug. 8 primary election.

Sabo, serving his first two-year term on the county board of commissioners, is a former trustee of the City of Taylor. He received an unofficial vote total of 2,632.

The vote totals for his Democratic opponents were:

Robert D. Plank of Romulus, 2,177; Mrs. Mary Washburn of Taylor, 1,420; Mitchell Moran of Taylor, 1,137 and Bronislau Drewniak, also of Taylor, 443 votes.

Bruce William Lofback was the only Republican nominee. He received 1,288 votes and will run against Sabo in the November general election.

The 26th District embraces the communities of Romulus, Huron Township, Flat Rock and parts of Taylor and Rockwood.

The vote totals for the candidates received by voters in the City of Romulus were: Sabo, 465; Plank, who led in Romulus with 1,055; Washburn, 296, Moran, 163 and Drewniak, eight votes. The Romulus voters gave Lofback a total of 256 votes. The primary returns for the

Notices of absence required

The Romulus City Council has approved the adoption of a policy requiring members of the city council who know they will be absent from a meeting to notify the mayor, clerk or treasurer prior to 5 p.m. on the meeting day.

The new policy was approved by a vote of 3-2. Voting against the motion to set such a council policy were Councilmen Edmund W. Bizak and Brooker R. Edwards.

Councilman James C. Stewart made the motion for the notification requirement. He was supported by Councilman Fred Junior Block. Council President Jimmie Raspberry and Councilman Ellis T. Pennington were on reported vacation and not present at last Thursday night's council session when the new policy was approved.

Summer rec programs end

All Romulus city-sponsored summer elementary school playground programs will end today, Frank J. Tolish, recreation director, announced.

The Friday children's film festival and basketball program at Romulus Senior High School will end at noon Friday.

The Romulus Senior Citizens Club enjoyed a square dance exhibition and speakers at the sixth annual anniversary dinner Aug. 15.

The Romulus Recreation Department is co-sponsoring with the Jaycees a special outdoor music concert, weather permitting, tentatively scheduled for Aug. 27, from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. at the Romulus Henry Ruff and Beverly Road City Park. Off street parking is provided.

The outdoor music concert is free, with music donated by Rick Shaw.

Curb cut request tabled by council

The Belleville City Council is scheduled to rule on Aug. 21 on a request made by a local Marathon station operator for permission to cut curbing on his station property.

The request made by Charles Bowers, involves cutting a section of the present curb for the construction of a new driveway. The city must approve such requests since the in-and-out traffic at the station involves a city street.

Action center program set

The Romulus Community Workers' 1972 summer social and cultural program is celebrating one of its closing activities entitled "Think Young and Be Creative."

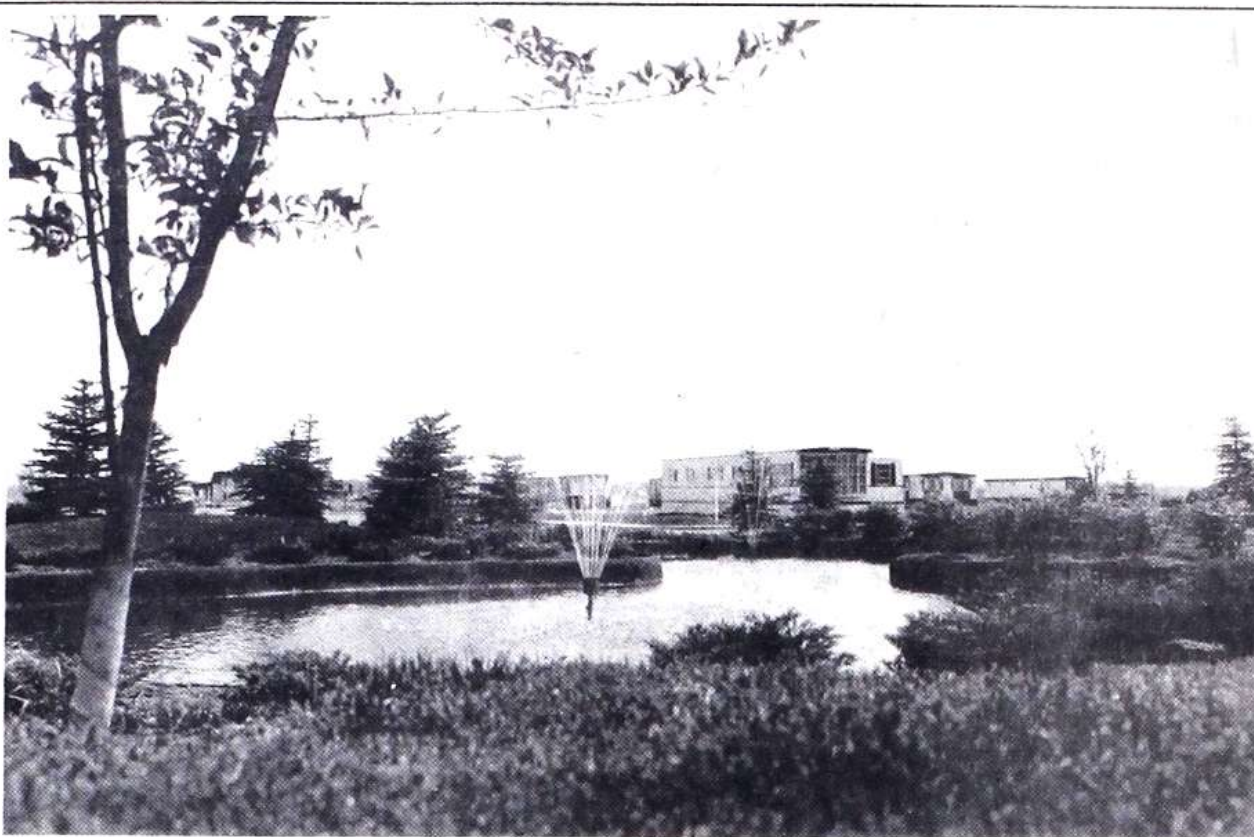

It will be held from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. on Monday, Aug. 21, at the Romulus Action Center, located at 3551 Beverly Rd., Romulus. The program will include art, handicrafts, drama and music.

At last week's council session, the request was tabled. Ellis Amerman, presiding in the absence of Mayor Royce E. Smith, reported the mayor had called him and told him that "all the homeowners on the street (Wabash) did not want the curb cut."

The city planning commission had approved the new curb cut in its recommendation to the city council. Bower reported he wanted the curb cut to alleviate the traffic jam in his parking lot.

Bower's original request included removal of a tree. The plans were changed to have the curb cut moved an additional 20 feet to permit the tree to stand.

NEW MOBILE HOME PARK — Belleville-Van Buren Township area's newest mobile home park — "Holiday West" — has opened for the acceptance of mobile home tenants. The new park, containing 455 sites is located on Willis Road, one quarter mile east of Rawsonville Road. A view of the new and large mobile home park is shown above.

It is the initial phase of a park development that, when completed, will have 1,000 home sites, club house with various recreational facilities, swimming and a shopping center. Holiday West is owned and operated by Nationwide Mobile Home Park, Inc., headed by Sheldon Futernick of Birmingham.

New mobile park opens

The Belleville-Van Buren Township area's newest mobile home park — "Holiday West" — is now opened for occupancy.

The mobile home park's initial phase consists of 455 mobile home sites located on Willis Road, 1/4-mile east of Rawsonville Road. A second phase of an additional 550 sites is to be constructed.

The first phase is completed except for landscaping, which will be done when the tenants are moved in and gas turned on, Deveder Smith, sales manager announced.

Holiday West is a division of Nationwide Mobile Home Parks Inc., headed by Sheldon Futernick of Birmingham. The firm also operates Holiday Woods in Van Buren Township.

The new mobile home park's complete facilities is being constructed on an 80-acre parcel of land purchased by the firm from an area farmer some time ago.

The facilities will include a large club house which will have laundry facilities and areas for various recreational activities. A swimming pool also will be built.

Smith also disclosed a shopping center is proposed for the tenants occupying the large mobile home park development.

Romulus okays millage renewal

Contrary to the county trend, voters in Romulus approved a proposal renewing a one-mill tax expiring in 1974, but they followed the rest of the county on the remaining three propositions on the Aug. 8 ballot.

City voters approved Proposal A, allowing juries of less than 12 members in misdemeanor cases with penalties under one year in prison. The vote was 1,295-940. County-wide, the proposal won by a 2-1 margin, 206,004-109,262.

Proposal B, calling for the millage renewal, was approved by Romulus voters, 1,155-979, although it was defeated on the county level, 160,005-158,431.

Proposal C, calling for county home rule, was defeated by Romulus voters, 1,175-751, and Proposal D, requesting an increase of one-quarter mill to the present one-quarter tax levy for the operation of the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority, was rejected by a vote of 1,468-987.

Countywide, Proposal C was defeated 164,964-117,456, while Proposal D went down 324,524-184,625.

State snowmobile queen search on

A Michigan-wide contest is under way to locate the state's most attractive 18-24 year-old to serve as 1973 Michigan Snowmobile Queen.

Conducted by the Michigan Marine & Snowmobile Dealers Association, winner of the competition will receive a $500 check in addition to the title. She also will reign during the association's three-day Greater Michigan Snowmobile & Winter Sports Show which opens at Detroit's Cobo Hall Sept. 15. According to show chairman Larry Johnson, she "will also be invited to participate in various winter sports promotions throughout the state during the year."

The show, the nation's first of the 1972-73 winter season and the largest, will occupy 100,000 square feet of Cobo Hall and include exhibits of more than 40 distributors and manufacturers of snowmobiles, winter sports equipment and accessories who are expected to exhibit their products in the association's 5th annual show.

The snowmobile queen competition is open to all single young women 18-24 years of age who are Michigan residents. Entrants, according to Johnson, should send a glossy photograph along with name, address, phone number and other pertinent information to: Michigan Snowmobile Queen Committee, P.O. Box 534, Bloomfield Hills, Michigan 48013. Deadline for entries is Tuesday, August 29.

Goodwill holds sale Aug. 24

The annual back to school "In-The-Plant" will be held on the third floor of the Goodwill building, located at 6522 Brush St. at East Grand Blvd., Detroit, on Thursday, Aug. 24, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

This special sale, an annual event, is intended to give customers of the Goodwill stores an opportunity to select from a special stock of fall and winter merchandise prior to its being placed in the regular stores.

All merchandise on sale at this time comes from the stock of clothing and household articles collected during the spring and summer from homes in the Detroit-Metropolitan area.

All clothing will have been cleaned and laundered as well as repaired before being placed on sale. Other household items also will be on sale.

Students get 4.0

Two area students were among those who received a perfect 4.0 average during the spring term at Michigan State University.

The students were Miss Pamela A. Mill, 12560 Stanley, Belleville, who is studying elementary and special education, and Douglas K. Rush, 29620 King Rd., Romulus, who is enrolled in Justin Morris College on the university campus.

Rush is a Huron High School graduate, while Miss Mill was graduated from Belleville High School.

Church plans parish dinner

The annual parish festival and chicken dinner sponsored by St. Patrick's Church of Carleton will be held from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m., Sunday, Aug. 27, at the parish grounds, located at Exeter and Labo roads.

Family-style dinners will be served from 11 a.m. until 5 p.m. in the parish hall. Dinner tickets will be adults, $2.50, children under 12 years of age, $1, and children under six will be free.

There will be games, booths and prizes at the festival.

The proven road to sales success!

Fact: over 94% of everybody uses the Yellow Pages. 70% of those make calls to firms while 30% go directly to the advertiser without calling. Smart businessmen know the Yellow Pages reaches customers, produces sales!

That's why they've found it pays to feature addresses and slogans prominently in their ads... to use display ads to stress reliability and to let buyers know the range and variety of brand name products sold and serviced. They also include days and hours open, if delivery service is available, what credit cards they'll accept. And they're represented under all headings pertaining to their business.

Now's the time to expand—or begin—advertising in the Yellow Pages. Just contact your representative—in the Yellow Pages under "Advertising—Directory & Guide". Call soon. Beat the deadline. Join the following businessmen who travel the Yellow Pages road to sales success:

LANDSCAPE CONTRACTORS—Stone Age Landscape Supplies, Van Dyke, Utica—Mr. John J. Merle

"It took us only one year to prove the value of the Yellow Pages. Being new in business, and a new advertiser, we kept close check on what the ads were doing for us. Based on our survey, we determined about 50% of our calls came from the Yellow Pages."

MOTORCYCLES—Detroit Honda Stores, Chalmers, Detroit—Mr. Gil Engles

"Yellow Pages advertising motivates a person who is ready to buy to call us, or come in and see us, and buy from us rather than another dealer. Because of our locations on Detroit's east side, and in northwest Detroit, Warren and Romulus, we advertise in the Detroit Yellow Pages, all six of the metropolitan directories and the Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti Yellow Pages. Our phones ring constantly and I must credit this primarily to our Yellow Pages program."

CONTRACTORS—GENERAL—Nick Manzella & Daughter Improvement Co., S. Mill, Pontiac—Mr. Nick Manzella

"I've always made a point of finding out where my customers come from and how they found me. Since I changed locations early in 1970, between 70 and 80% of my business has come from the Yellow Pages."

LUMBER—RETAIL—Tela-Warren Hardware & Lumber Co., N. Telegraph Rd., Dearborn—Mr. Leonard Zucker

"Two-thirds of my advertising budget goes into the Yellow Pages. And my business increased 27% during 1971! Most of that increase can be directly attributed to increasing the sizes and placements of ads in the Yellow Pages."

HALLS & AMPHITHEATRES—Camoron Hall, S. Telegraph Rd., Taylor—Mr. William J. Campbell

"I placed an ad in the West and Downriver directories and, within a few months after they were out, my date book was filled for the remainder of the year. Business hasn't let up since. I started asking every customer how he or she happened to find us and knew I had made a wise move when 90% of the people said they found us in the Yellow Pages."

DOORS—Doors Galore Inc., Schoenherr, Warren—Mrs. Bernice Osborne

"Since we've placed display ads in the East Area, North Woodward Area and Detroit Yellow Pages, about one-third of all our new business can be traced directly to the Yellow Pages."

TOWING—AUTOMOTIVE—Shelton Towing Service, Marion, Redford—Mr. J. C. Shelton

"The first year I advertised in the Yellow Pages my business doubled as a result of my ad! No other advertising has ever performed for me like the Yellow Pages."

'Everybody's Santa' dies of cancer at 53

By Henry Cantin

Eugene Gribble, a man thousands of adults and children knew as Santa Claus, is dead.

Mr. Gribble died Thursday in the University of Michigan Hospital, Ann Arbor, a victim of cancer. He was 53.

Funeral services for the popular and veteran Santa Claus, who had been under treatment for several months, will be held Monday at the Baum Funeral Home, 36885 Goddard Rd., Romulus.

The Rev. Hal Ferris, pastor of the United Methodist Church of Romulus, will officiate at the 1 p.m. services.

Burial will be in the Michigan Memorial Park Cemetery, located near Flat Rock.

Mr. Gribble, who played the role of Santa not only at Christmas time but throughout the year, is survived by his wife, Marilyn; a daughter, Mrs. Michael (Donna Kay) Motley of Kentucky; a son, Thomas, of Dearborn Heights; a sister, Mrs. Kathleen Cramer of Pennsylvania; and two brothers, Robert of Pennsylvania and Chester of Traverse City.

Mr. Gribble was born in New Salem, Pa., and lived in the City of Romulus for more than 20 years. He was employed as a truck driver for the White Star Trucking Co., Inc. until felled by sickness.

Bringing happiness and joy to others was his main concern. Playing the role of Santa Claus was Mr. Gribble's greatest pleasure outside his family. For the last 13 years, he set up during each Yule season his Christmas Fantasyland trailer, initially in Romulus, and more recently in the City of Belleville.

It is said to be the most elaborate display in Michigan by a private individual and in the last 13 years more than 200,000 children trooped through it and sat on his knee.

Every Christmas eve Gribble, dressed as Santa, delivered to children presents their parents have left outside for him to pick up.

He visited hundreds of churches, orphanages, convalescent homes and other places in his red suit. Gribble grew a real long white beard and maintained it throughout the year.

He played Santa Claus 365 days a year.

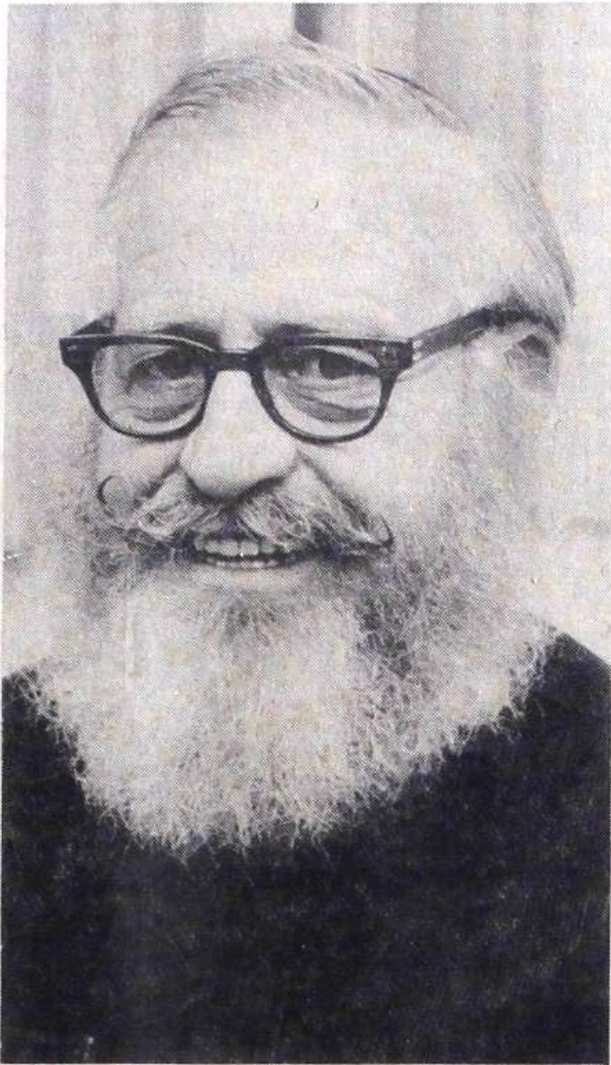

Christmas parades both in Romulus and last year in Belleville featured his life-sized reindeer sled. His Santa Workhouse was always a big attraction to area children each Christmas.

Before losing his sight and losing his white beard, which began to fall out, he started to build a gingerbread house in his garage at his Romulus home, located at 13560 Aston St., to be included in his Christmas Fantasyland exhibits.

When Santa's sickness became known, many of his adult benefactors and parents of children that he loved and worked for initiated fund drives to assist in meeting mounting medical bills.

Various 4-H members — parents, leaders and friends, arranged a "Christmas in July" benefit horse show at the Wayne County 4-H Fairgrounds near Belleville on July 23.

Mr. Gribble was a "most favorite" donut maker at the 4-H fair. His presence and ever-ready smile and willingness to help endeared him to many persons.

SANTA CLAUS IS DEAD — Eugene Gribble, 53, of Romulus, who assumed the role of Santa Claus for more than two decades in local communities and at Christmas activities, is dead. Known to thousands of children as "Santa," Gribble died of cancer at University of Michigan Hospital, Ann Arbor, on Thursday night.

He was past president of the Michigan Travel Trailer Club.

Despite the removal of eight tumors in the last three years and his trips one out of every five weeks to University Hospital in Ann Arbor for therapy, he planned on leading Belleville's Christmas parade this coming December.

"He was the best Santa Claus I know," was the comment of many when hearing about Mr. Gribble's death. "He will be hard to replace."

New Boston visitor recovers from bee attack

Charles Franchetto, 65, of 21980 Merriman Rd., New Boston, has recovered from a "wild" attack by a swarm of yellow jacket bees thanks to the alertness of his daughter, family and neighbors.

Franchetto reached the age of 65 last Monday, the day he was released from the Riverside Hospital in Trenton after five days of treatment for severe shock and 18 "bad" bee stings on his face, arms and legs. He is back home recovered but mindful of what an angry swarm of bees can do.

Last Thursday afternoon Franchetto was cutting the grass in front of his daughter's home, located at the Merriman Road address. The power mower he was using struck a large nest of yellow jacket bees located in the ditch in front of the home.

The bees swarmed over Franchetto, stinging him repeatedly all over his body. Some of the bees even entered the inside of his pant legs, stinging him on the lower portions of the legs.

Mrs. Ernest Gaciok, his daughter, heard the commotion and came running out of the house. She found her father lying on the ground "in shock" with the bees still swarming all over him.

Mrs. Gaciok administered mouth-to-mouth resuscitation to her father while her aunt and uncle, who were visiting the Gacioks, and other neighbors attempted to rid the area of the bees.

Police from Huron Township were summoned as was the ambulance from Flat Rock which took Franchetto to the Riverside Hospital. Two neighbors, Roy McKnight and Peter Lach burned the nest and the immediate area with fuel oil.

Mr. and Mrs. Franchetto were spending part of their vacation with their married daughter. They are from Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.

Mrs. Gaciok asked this newspaper to express her thanks to the Huron Township Police and Fire Department, which also responded to the home, friends and neighbors who assisted in helping to get her father to the hospital.

Moore opposes Jean Richert for supervisor

George W. Moore, Democratic incumbent Huron Township supervisor, will face Republican Mrs. Jean E. Richert for the supervisor's spot in the November general election.

Official vote returns of the Aug. 8 primary election gave Moore, making his first election bid for supervisor, 706 votes to 363 votes for Mrs. Richert, secretary of the Huron Board of Education for the last five years.

She was also making her first bid for township office. George Angel, Democratic former supervisor, got 246 votes.

The August primary saw 13 Republicans and 13 Democrats vying for the posts of supervisor, clerk, treasurer, two trustees and four constables.

The election returns as reported by the township clerk's office for other candidates were as follows:

Democrats running for clerk: Incumbent Mrs. Mary Lou Carey, 451 votes; Robert R. Kittle, 215 votes. For treasurer, Edward S. Dulecki, 614. He will face incumbent Republican Edward Helwig, who received 446 votes.

Democrats seeking the two trusteeships and their vote totals are: John Pukar, 333; Eugene H. Rakotz, 309; Rene F. Campeau, 308; Gregory Haener, 271; and incumbent Donald Radabaugh, 243. Pukar and Rakotz were nominated.

The only Democrat running for constable was Mrs. Devere R. Willard, who received 484 votes.

The primary vote total for the Republican candidates follow:

For supervisor: Mrs. Jean Richert, 362; Christopher Maciolak Jr., police chief, 245; and Ronald Wheeler, 54.

For clerk: Mrs. Wilma Wilson, former township clerk, 302; and Mrs. Shirley A. Burgess, 230.

For trustees (two nominated): Carl T. Renton, current business manager of the Huron School District, 360; William P. Geiererman, 327; and Peter J. Glaab, 288.

Renton and Geiererman will face Pukar and Rakotz in the November election.

For constables: Harold T. Ashby, 365; Russell J. Wilson, 352; Donald R. Sands, 340; and Joseph E. Carney, 294. They were nominated and will be on the November election ballot.

Mahalak renominated to run in November against Elliot

State Rep. Edward E. Mahalak of Romulus, Democratic incumbent in the 38th Legislative District, won his bid to run for a fifth term in last week's primary.

Vote returns of the Aug. 8 election show Mahalak was renominated by more than a 650-vote margin over his closest opponent, Mrs. Mary A. Chaney of Taylor.

Mahalak received 2,832 votes, Mrs. Chaney polled 2,175, while Elmer Parraghi, former Sumpter Township supervisor, received 1,226.

Mahalak, who resides at 10154 Miriam St., Romulus, will now face Joanne B. Elliott of 27453 River Lane, Flat Rock, the Republican's lone nominee, in the November election. Mrs. Elliott received 1,797 votes.

Most of Mahalak's strength came from Monroe County, while the incumbent actually lost in Wayne County to Mrs. Chaney. He polled 1,429 votes as against Mrs. Chaney's 1,686.

In Wayne County, Parraghi received 849 votes and in Monroe, 377 votes. Mrs. Chaney got 489 votes in Monroe County. Elliott's Wayne county total was 819 and in Monroe County she received 978.

The vote for Mrs. Chaney, president of Citizens Against Bussing (CAB), Taylor chapter topped Mahalak's in the City of Wayne. She received 1,686 against 1,429 for Mahalak.

In commenting on the primary election Mahalak said it was "real tough," but an emotional kind of campaign.

Voters in Romulus gave Mrs. Chaney 857 votes to Mahalak's 657 and Parraghi's 290. Elliott received 219 votes.

Under recent court-ordered apportionment based on the 1970 U.S. Census, the following areas have been added to the 38th District: part of the City EDUARDE E. MAHALAK of Taylor, part of the city of Wayne, part of the Township of Frenchtown and all of the Township of Whiteford. The district embraces more than half of Monroe County.

Former communities of the 38th district — the City of Belleville, Van Buren Township and a part of the City of Romulus — have been added to the new 22nd State District.

July 27 public hearing. The citizens claim the project would revitalize a degenerating neighborhood.

The only question some persons, particularly city officials, have is whether or not a legal agreement can be worked out binding Wash to his present plans. What city officials want in the binding contract is a clause forbidding subsidized housing.

Mayor Hyle J. Carmichael, after the public hearing said, "The concept is beautiful" but added that his opinion stands only if the project could be completed "as presented."

Wash denied accusations that the project could end up being subsidized by the government.

He claimed he was "legally bound" to his plans as presented, emphasizing that the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) officials had already informed him type 236 homes (subsidized multiple dwellings) would not be approved for the area.

"HUD already feels there's saturation in this area," Wash insisted. "This project would bring benefits to the city—prestige," Wash said.

The Romulus Board of Education has come out opposed to the project, claiming the potential influx of students from such a project could force the school system to go on half-day sessions.

Last Thursday's council action came as somewhat of a surprise to many, as it was reported at the conclusion of the July 27 public hearing the city council and Romulus Planning Commission would meet jointly and discuss the minutes of the public meeting.

Summer recreation programs end today

Home buyers' motto: Get it in writing

By WILLIAM FAUST, State Senator, 13th District

A $200 bedspread can make a room filled with cut-rate furniture look inviting.

So too can a little bit of carpeting and a sodded lawn make a house appear to be much better than it really is.

Potential home buyers are constantly advised to see what they are getting for their money and to look at a house itself, minus the frills and trimmings.

Before buying a home, a consumer should know what comes with the property. Some basic "extras," like the furniture in a model home, are apparent.

But how about the storm windows, the screens, light fixtures? Are they included in the price of the home? Or, are the storm windows, screens and light fixtures shown on the model home the actual kind to be included in the purchase price of the home or will cheaper models be substituted?

If a builder agrees to make certain changes, the buyer should get that agreement in writing along with the cost, if any is charged.

Warranties should be thoroughly checked, especially on the furnace and water heater.

Depending on utility rates in the area, it may be a mistake to buy a home with electric heat in some areas; in other areas, it could be a mistake to buy a home with gas heat.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second in a two-part series of articles, written by Sen. William Faust (D-13th District) on some practical suggestions to new home buyers.)

While even experts can fail to spot defects in the construction of a house, many defects can be spotted by most amateurs.

For example, even a layman should be able to determine whether the traffic plan of a home is adequate, if there are any cracks in the basement walls and note whether the house rattles or leaks air.

He can see whether the downspout is in place, whether the paint is blistered or if there are signs of flooding in the basement.

Aside from such simple inspection, an appraiser's professional advice is often worth the cost. For a fee of $100 or less, an appraiser can give the buyer a pretty good understanding of the defects as well as the assets of a home.

Although some home buyers feel they cannot afford to pay an appraiser, a real estate agent or a lawyer for assistance, consumer experts say that such professional fees are really a small price to pay on what is often the greatest investment ever made by a consumer.

Some experts go so far as to say that "a home buyer really cannot afford not to obtain professional advice."

A lawyer may be especially helpful in handling financial arrangements in purchasing a home.

For example, many risks are involved when property is purchased without title insurance from a title company.

An attorney may also help a home buyer save money by finding a mortgage loan at a lower interest rate than the buyer might find on his own.

He is more apt than the average consumer to be aware of the finer points of home buying. An attorney will probably ask whether the builder is bonded and make sure that the bank, from which the buyer receives his mortgage, receives a waiver of lien. Unless this waiver is received, an unpaid sub-contractor may file a lien or a claim against the property. In effect then, the home buyer would be forced to pay sub-contractors — in addition to his monthly installment on his home.

Some lawyers can also advise potential home buyers on local assessment practices, which could have an effect on property taxes.

Local taxes should be checked by a home buyer in figuring out whether he can afford to live in a certain community. Is there a local income tax? What are the tax rates for the city, school district and county?

The buyer should know whether he can afford special taxes levied for extras, whether the roads are paved and if the sewers have been installed. If not, special assessments may later be needed for these facilities.

If a builder doesn't keep his promises, a home owner has several recourses.

He should talk to the local prosecutor if he had the misfortune to do business with an unlicensed builder.

If the builder is licensed, complaints may be addressed to the Residential Builders and Maintenance and Alteration Contractors Board. Although the board can't force the builder to keep his promises, the builder is very much aware that the board may revoke or suspend his license and is often quick to take action on complaints.

The Michigan Consumers Council warns new home buyers not to delay in filing complaints because a complaint could be voided by the statute of limitations.

If the complaint involves a claim of under $300, a home buyer can sue the builder in the small claims division of the district court in his area. In the small claims lawsuit, a home buyer doesn't need to be represented by a lawyer.

More importantly, the builder cannot hire a lawyer to represent him.

Complaints in the small claims division may be filed in the Court Clerk's office in Room 1101 of the City-County Building, 2 Woodward Ave., downtown Detroit, between 8:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. Monday thru Friday.

If the complaint involves a claim in excess of $300, a home buyer may file a lawsuit in circuit or district court. In these cases, however, the home buyer will probably need to hire an attorney.

Such steps, however, can be avoided by home buyers who take a few precautions, which I have tried to outline here.

Home ownership has become almost a tradition in the American way of life. It can be rewarding — and offers most people a sense of security and self-esteem.

By keeping some of these basic precautions in mind, home ownership can be just that.

Toughened pollution law levies high fines

Among the new public acts of 1972 is a tough law against the pollution of public waters. It strengthens an old law which had made it possible for industries guilty of major water pollution to escape with comparatively small fines.

The new act permits fines of as much as $10,000 against industries which cause pollution of public waters, plus another $10,000 a day for each day the violation continues. The old law mentions a $500 fine but does not specifically set a maximum.

In several recent cases, judges levied fines of only $500 against industries guilty of serious water pollution. The fines were unpopular with the public, but the courts held that under their interpretation of the law, it was the most they could levy.

This brought about the new law, which allows judges to impose stiff fines for pollution. The new statute will not be effective until 90 days after this year's legislative session ends sometime in December.

Another significant new law clarifies the authority for establishing payments levels for certain patients in state mental institutions. It permits the superintendent of a mental hospital to make decisions on whether volunteer patients should pay for their care themselves or whether it should be paid by the state. This determination will be based on the patient's financial status.

By Edward E. Mahalak
State Representative
38th District

Under the old law, it was unclear whether this decision should be made by the superintendent or by probate courts.

Another law, which gets into the area of public safety, requires the fireproofing of tents, ranging from those used for public assemblies down to small camping tents.

One of the other new laws permits girls to take part in non-contact interscholastic sports. It provides that female high school students have the legal right to compete for a position on a boys' team. This is in line with recent court decisions which held that girls could not be denied the chance to try out for high school sports teams.

The legislature also took action to strengthen the state's insurance code. Among other things, it sets new guidelines for the licensing of insurance agents, solicitors, adjusters and insurance counselors.

Some of the other new public acts enacted this year do the following:

—Require that jailkeepers in county jails accept private donations of clothing for prisoners awaiting trial.

—Permit cities and villages which own public utilities to borrow money for as much as five years for capital expenditures related to the utilities.

—Increase from five to six per cent the rate of interest on judgments recovered in civil court actions.

—Permit a county which has a delinquent tax revolving fund to borrow money and issue notes in anticipation of the collection of the delinquent taxes.

Another opinion

Motorists to be told to buckle up, or else

There will be another federal-state charade over the move to force motorists to save their own lives by using seat belts and shoulder harnesses.

Federal tacticians of the U. S. Department of Transportation are using the crowbar of greed to make the decision stick.

They conclude that if drivers can't be educated into longevity they will have to be convinced by law. If that fails, Big Daddy will withhold $20 million a year in highway funds.

It's a re-run of a policy on highway billboards and another requiring motorcyclists to wear protective helmets to ward off fractures.

The federal government establishes minimum guidelines and demands that the state enact laws meeting them or risk losing 10 per cent of its highway matching funds, $20 million in Michigan's case.

So Michigan enacted a billboard control act this year, warned owners to get permits and to abide by the setback and other restrictions.

Not much has happened and, facing a Sept. 2 deadline, the owners of 4,865 billboards in the Upper Peninsula alone had not applied for permits.

The same problem developed when federal authorities required the protective helmet for motorcyclists. There immediately developed a resistance among those who like to have their hair flow free in the breeze.

So the Michigan Court of Appeals held that the helmet law is unconstitutional, that motorcyclists cannot be legally protected from themselves.

But the big point is that Michigan complied by enacting laws that will safeguard $20 million in federal highway funds, twice.

Now about seat belts.

The Department of Transportation is recommending a series of requirements that will force — by golly — motorists to buckle up for safety. They are:

—Require motorists to buckle their seat belts.

—Outlaw disconnecting the warning buzzer that sounds until the seat belts are fastened.

—Permit right turns on a red light unless a sign specifically prohibits it.

—Establish a national level of .10 per cent alcohol in the blood as proof of intoxication, a standard already enacted into law in Michigan.

Col. John R. Plants, director of the Michigan State Police, is convinced that enforcement would be difficult if not impossible, that people have got to want to protect themselves.

"You could reduce highway fatalities by one-fourth to one-third across the country if people wore seat belts and shoulder harnesses," he said.

But history bears evidence that a new law won't help and that policemen will continue scraping people off the pavement.

Michigan's first threat from the federal government came when it required an annual safety inspection of automobiles. The legislature turned thumbs down.

"Michigan bucked the federal government on the annual inspection, but we met the requirements by setting up check lanes," Plants said. "California did the same thing."

The guessing here is that the legislature will have a seat belt bill in 1973, there will be cries of constitutional freedom and very little will be accomplished.

People still want to be the masters of their own fate, dead or alive.

Senate would name vice president winner chose Richard M. Johnson to serve as Vice President under President Martin Van Buren.

Question: Recently, I read newspapers that legislation going through Congress will actually force Michigan to lower the standards of our state meat inspection law. This would be ridiculous and a terrible blow to consumers. Can't you do something?

Answer: After a recent emergency meeting of the Michigan Congressional delegation, we were able to persuade the House Agriculture Committee to back down on the amendment Question: From time to time we read that the House of Representatives would select the President if no candidate for President receives an absolute majority of electoral votes in the election. But who would select the vice president under such circumstances? I told my wife the House of Representatives would do that too. She disagrees, as usual. Please straighten her out.

—J.R., Detroit

Answer: Your wife wins this argument, at least. If no candidate for Vice President receives a majority of the electoral votes, the Senate (not the House) would choose between the two candidates for Vice President who receive the highest number of electoral votes. The Senate has been required to exercise this responsibility only once in history. In 1836, the Senate

Romulus residents slap council meeting

To the editor:

We of the Wayne-Beverly road area of Romulus would like to express our disapproval of the secret meeting held with the absence of two councilmen in which the rezoning petition of Ecorse Road was denied.

The one opponent, Councilman James C. Stewart, conducted very underhanded prejudicial methods, which we hope to rectify. We will hang him at the polls in the next election.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Streety
34555 Beverly Rd.
Romulus

EDITOR'S NOTE — While we frequently criticize various governmental bodies for "secret meetings," we have to defend the Romulus City Council on this meeting. The denial of the rezoning was determined by a vote of the council — true, two of the seven members were on vacation — at last Thursday's public city council meeting. We have two stories concerning the rezoning on page 1. However, our defense of the meeting should not imply that we agree with the results of the vote because we feel the rezoning should have been granted.

Folks of Romulus and surrounding communities paid their final loving respects to Eugene (Santa) Gribble at the Baum Funeral Home in Romulus over the weekend. "Santa" died of cancer Thursday afternoon at University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor. Looking forward to Christmas, 1972, many wondered how the big void Gribble left would be filled. Who would sit on Santa's throne in the Fantasyland Trailer and who would make his annual Christmas Eve rounds to awaken children who were expecting a visit from Santa? One little girl, with the innocent faith of youth, had the answer — Santa's helpers will have to take over!

Plans are going ahead for the annual Labor Day Festival and Country Fair which will be held on the grounds of the St. Aloysius Church and School, Ozga Road and St. Aloysius Street, Romulus, Sept. 2-4. A country-style chicken dinner will be served Sunday, Sept. 3, from noon to 5 p.m. and a spaghetti dinner on Labor Day. Watch future editions of this paper for news of other festival attractions.

The next regular meeting of the Ladies Missionary Group is scheduled for Thursday at the Calvary Baptist Church on Ozga Road. The time is 10 a.m.

A 76th birthday party honoring Mrs. Leona Buckberry of Sharon Street was held Sunday, Aug. 6, at her home. The happy event was planned by her children. Present were Mr. and Mrs.

Hugh Buckberry and Debbie and Jan, of Belleville, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Stubblefield of Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Gibson of Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Sampson and family of Romulus, Mr. Edward Buckberry, who resides with his mother, and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Piper of Romulus, sister and brother-in-law of the honoree. Pot luck dinner was enjoyed. Mrs. Buckberry was presented with a set of luggage for future traveling.

The United Methodist Men's Club has a refreshment booth at the Wayne County 4-H Fair which is now in progress (August 15-20) at the 4-H Fairgrounds on Quirk Road, Belleville. They invite everyone to stop by to patronize them and chat a bit.

Miss April Forintos writes she is having an exciting trip, crammed full with wonderful experiences, as she tours and plays with the U.S. Collegiate Wind Band. The group has been traveling and giving concerts throughout Europe and is expected back in the United States Friday, after three weeks. April, who is accomplished at both the piano and flute, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Forintos of Pennsylvania Road. She will enter Michigan State University this fall.

Another Romulus High graduate of 1972, Shelia Wilson, is also a flutist with the U.S. Collegiate Wind Band on the tour. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Wilson of Hunt Street.

On Sunday, Aug. 6, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Carrico of Huron River Drive South held a birthday dinner in honor of their son, Michael, his wife, Elizabeth, and their children who were visiting from Jeddah, Saudi Arabia. The family left last Thursday evening by air after spending a week here. Michael is a mechanic for TWA. The other four Carrico children and their families were also present at the birthday dinner: Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Pooler and family of Bloomfield Hills; Mr. and Mrs. Roger Eaton and family of Romulus; Mr. and Mrs. Terrance Carrico of Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Kevin Carrico of Ypsilanti.

Faust says bus service to Detroit will continue

Belleville area residents can be assured bus service to Detroit will continue, according to State Sen. William Faust (D-Westland).

"A citizen who would be affected by the elimination of bus service to Detroit called my office in Lansing to express concern over the possible discontinuance of the bus route into Detroit from the Belleville area," Faust said. "A check with the Michigan Public Service Commission showed that Short Way Lines has been involved in a business transaction with North Star Lines, and that Short Ways' route to Detroit has been sold," Faust said. North Star Lines operates out of Grand Rapids, while Short Way Lines is headquartered in Toledo.

"It is apparent that the needs in Wayne County are for more mass transit, not less," commented Faust. Thomas Wegebauer, general manager for Short Way Lines, was contacted regarding this matter, and he stated "Arrangements have been made to continue service into Detroit for commuters."

Discussing any further developments, Sen. Faust said "Changes in transit service require the approval of the Michigan Public Service Commission."

Society publishes leaflet for stroke victims

Understanding Stroke, a new education leaflet for stroke victims, their families and friends, has been published by the National Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults to help clear up many commonly held misconceptions about one of man's oldest illnesses.

The publication is the first in a series of health education leaflets being produced by the society as an integral part of its public service program. Stroke patient rehabilitation is a major Easter Seal activity throughout its nationwide network of some 2,000 facilities and programs.

Understanding Stroke, developed under the guidance of the society's professional advisors and counselors, was designed to reinforce service programs offered by affiliates in local communities to persons disabled by stroke.

"This new leaflet is in keeping with the current trend to help educate the lay public about the medical aspects of frightening illnesses," according to Maynard I. Shapiro, M.D., a member of the National Society's Professional Advisory Council. Dr. Shapiro, who is chairman of the community health services study group of the joint committee for stroke facilities, sponsored by the American Neurological Association, said "Understanding Stroke is an excellent tool, particularly for the families of stroke patients."

The leaflet contains basic facts about the medical aspects of stroke, its effects on daily living functions and offers suggestions for understanding and helping patients. It also contains a glossary of medical terms relating to stroke.

An estimated 1.5 million living Americans have suffered stroke, the society points out, resulting in one or more disabilities such as a weakened or paralyzed side, poor balance, loss of vision or loss of good speech.

Subsequent leaflets in the new series of educational publications will deal with rehabilitation, where to go for help, prevention of crippling, architectural barriers and other subjects pertinent to Easter Seal services as the oldest and largest voluntary agency serving the needs of the handicapped.

Single copies of Understanding Stroke are available free on request from the Easter Seal Society of Wayne County with a stamped, self-addressed envelope. The address: P.O. Box 101, Inkster, Michigan 48141.

Spearman's in trouble with city over parking

A civil action may be instituted against Spearman's Fine Foods Restaurant, 9110 S. Wayne Rd., Romulus, if the restaurant does not comply with the city's zoning laws

Jaycees deliver directories

The Romulus Jaycees have succeeded in delivering more than 6,000 city directories which were prepared by club members.

The goal of 8,000 will be reached as soon as the sections, located in the northeast corner of the township area and parts of the central city, are completed.

Persons in any areas other than the above mentioned ones, who have not received directories are asked to contact either President Lee Silvey or Mike Pawelak at 941-0049. Limited copies are also available through the Mayor's offices at Romulus City Hall.

The directory, a 32-page booklet, is provided free to residents in order to help acquaint them with their city.

relative to using adjacent land as a parking lot.

The city council Thursday night concurred with a recommendation from City Attorney John E. Young that a civil suit be initiated seeking an injunction against the restaurant. The injunction will be sought to either halt the restaurant from using the adjacent vacant lot behind the building or to force it to bring the lot up to the requirements of the city zoning ordinance, which call for paving for off-street parking.

The city has received numerous complaints charging trucks have been using the lot for parking, the council was told. In February of this year the restaurant owner was fined $50 in the 34th District Court after he pleaded "no contest" for zoning ordinance violations involving parking on the lot.

Councilman James C. Stewart asked his colleagues, "How can we enforce the ordinance against one restaurant without enforcing it against all other restaurants with no paved parking lots?"

Councilman William M. Oakley, presiding over the council session in the absence of Council President Jimmie Raspberry, said, "I think most restaurants are in non-conforming use relative to our new zoning ordinance. I think we should aid our legal department to enforce our ordinances."

Clayton W. Meldrum, manager of the Romulus Building Department and chief code enforcement officer, reported the city has been to get the restaurant to comply for some time, resulting in the legal counsel's request for court action.

Councilman Edmund W. Bizak made a motion to approve the attorney's recommendation to have the restaurant comply with the ordinance or start court proceedings. He was supported by Councilman Brooker R. Edwards.

The vote for approving the motion was 4-1. Stewart cast the dissenting vote.

Four Belleville students who will attend Western Michigan University have completed their three-day orientation program, the university announced Monday.

They are Anthony H. Woody, Mark Wilkinson, James H. Schweigert and Frank A. Horton.

Group seeks queen

A Michigan-wide contest is under way to locate the state's most attractive 18-24 year-old to serve as 1973 Michigan Snowmobile Queen.

Conducted by the Michigan Marine & Snowmobile Dealers Association, the contest offers the winner a $500 check in addition to the title.

She also will reign during the association's three-day Greater Michigan Snowmobile & Winter Sports Show, which opens at Detroit's Cobo Hall on Sept. 15, according to Show Chairman Larry Johnson, and she also will be invited to participate in various winter sports promotions throughout the state during the year.

Gray-Phillips wed

Mentor, Ohio church is scene of wedding

St. Andrew's Episcopal Church in Mentor, Ohio was reserved for the recent wedding of Michelle Phillips of Mentor and Anthony R. Gray of Romulus. The couple exchanged double ring vows at a four o'clock ceremony read by the Rev. William Worman.

The afternoon nuptials united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Phillips of 9481 Headlands Road, Mentor, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Le Roy Gray of 35196 Eureka Road, Romulus.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride appeared in a toe-touching creation of white Chantilly lace and organza over pink peau de soie, the lace forming the high-rise bodice and the wide cuffs which accented the full, sheer sleeves. A full-length, peau train added back interest to the A-line gown.

CUT IN SHOULDER-length, her bouffant veil of silk illusion drifted from a white silk headband. Cascading pink sweetheart rosebuds, white carnations, baby's breath, and ferns completed her ensemble.

A college friend of the bride, Kathy Bandwen of Berea, Ohio, was asked to be maid of honor. Her formal gown was styled of orchid dotted swiss with a matching braided halo as her headdress. The nosegay she held was comprised of pink roses, white daisies and baby's breath as were those carried by the bride's two sisters, Barbara Phillips of Mentor and Mrs. John A. Krueger of Columbus, Ohio, the two bridesmaids.

Their ensembles, in aqua and mint green, respectively, were identical to Miss Bandwen's.

Best man was Jim Smith of Romulus and ushers were Gary Shade of Reynoldsburg, Ohio and Sherwood Kupper of Toledo, Ohio, the bridegroom's college roommates.

Sandwich survey

What would we ever do without sandwiches? They show up in tender slices of roasted beef or pork when whole wheat, white or rye bread is spread with butter, margarine or salad dressing. Sandwiches also utilize leftover tidbits in the form of minced spreads of ham, corned beef or lamb. Popular meat and bread partners, such as roast beef, open faced burgers or grilled ham and cheese, may also be hot from range, broiler or griddle.

MISS BLOCK

Couple plan December ceremony

Mr. and Mrs. Delton Block of Romulus announce the engagement of their daughter, Vickie, to Gary Paris, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Paris of Romulus.

The young couple plan to be married in December at St. Paul United Church of Christ in Taylor.

Please note

For newly-engaged couples and for prospective brides, we have printed forms to fill out to announce your betrothal and to enable us to write your wedding story completely and correctly.

If you have any doubt as to what information we require to do a story, these forms list all the pertinent questions.

To obtain either an engagement or bridal questionnaire, simply stop by our office, 405 Main St., Belleville, or request one via telephone 697-9191. We'll be happy to mail either form.

We ask that you also bring or send in pictures to accompany either story. There is no charge for this service.

Women of the Moose

By Shirley Garry

Belleville Chapter No. 1135: I just got back from my vacation of 10 days in the northern part of Wisconsin and my family and I had a beautiful time.

There will be a publicity committee meeting at the Moose Home Aug. 15 at 7:30 p.m. so I hope I will see everyone there. It's important that everyone show up. We do want some good fish fries and card parties so let's all turn out.

There's not much to report except a couple coming events: the special meeting Aug. 19 and the picnic at Susterka Park Aug. 27.

Don't forget our meetings are the second and fourth Mondays of each month. Fish fries start Sept. 8.

As the last page of life's book is turned, the spirit is born anew into the realm of eternal light. We believe each funeral should bespeak this sense of homecoming... this faith in life everlasting

FICTION

"My Name is Asher Lev" by Chaim Potok. Asher Lev is, by his intensely religious Jewish family's standards, an odd little boy. He is interested in only one thing — drawing and then painting.

"Malpractice" by Eleazar Lipsky. After brain surgery at a shabby upper New York State hospital, when her condition has deteriorated instead of improved, Manya Schroeder and her husband are persuaded to sue.

"Blockbuster" by Gerald Green. Carrie and David Loomis, a young couple living in a low-rent brownstone in New York City, are caught between the landlord who wants all the tenants to vacate so he can sell the building and the Tenants Council that is fighting for the occupants' rights.

"Doctor's Destiny" by Elizabeth Seifert. Dr. Storm Linder's future in his grandfather's hospital seems settled until he meets an attractive student training to be a surgical technician.

"Rendezvous" by Douglas Reeman. Sea warfare in early World War II.

"The Japanese Mistress" by Richard Neely. An attractive though neurotic suburban socialite is murdered and her husband is the prime suspect.

"Package to Spain" by Madeleine A. Pollard. A package tour to Spain and a mysterious suitcase lead to violence.

NON-FICTION

"Flower Pressing" by Peter and Susanne Bauzen. Pressed flower picture and dried flower arrangements.

"Dream Power" by Ann Farady. The author discusses the biology of dreaming; dream interpretation theories from Freud and Jung to the more modern works of Calvin Hall and Frederick Perls; and the constructive use of dreams in daily life.

BIOGRAPHY

"Prince Philip: an Informal Biography" by John Basil Boothroyd. The Duke of Edinburgh is viewed as a Greek prince, a stately consort, a man of the people, and a modern adventurer in this sympathetic portrait.

"Brian Piccolo: a Short Season" by Jeannie Morris. Brian Piccolo, 1943-1970, and football.

ROMULUS LIBRARY
1121 S. Wayne Rd.

NON-FICTION

"The Family Handyman" discusses tools and equipment, plumbing, heating, electricity, ventilation, roofs, walls, and foundations and covers "emergencies" including floods, storms, fires, freezing temperatures, electrical failures, and tornadoes, as well as the sudden breakdown of household appliances, machinery, and faults in the building itself.

"Fillets of Plaise" by Gerald Malcolm Durrell. The celebrated writer recaptures amusing and adventurous episodes of his youth and adulthood, focusing on his years in Corfu.

"Four in a Wild Place" by John Stallard. This account of the Stallards' year-long experiment in homesteading on a Wisconsin farm describes the activities of their daily life — chopping wood, growing and canning vegetables, slaughtering a hog — as they adjusted to a simple but rugged life.

BIOGRAPHY

"A Circle of Quiet" by Madeleine L'Engle. Records one woman's attempt to understand the complexities of human nature and life.

"O'Casey, Sean" by Eileen O'Casey. The Irish author's widow describes "their married life — its great family happiness, its sudden tragedies, its continuing money problems and such celebrated figures as Bernard Shaw, Augustus John, Harold Macmillan, and George Jean Nathan."

Children fete Rentons on golden anniversary

James H. Renton, who is a life-long member of the Belleville community, and his wife, E. Lucille Horn Renton, were the honored guests at a golden wedding anniversary party given by their children Sunday, August 6. Planned as a lawn celebration at the John Orskey home on Martinsville Road, the proceedings had to be moved to the Donald S. Renton's nearby garage because of cold, rainy weather.

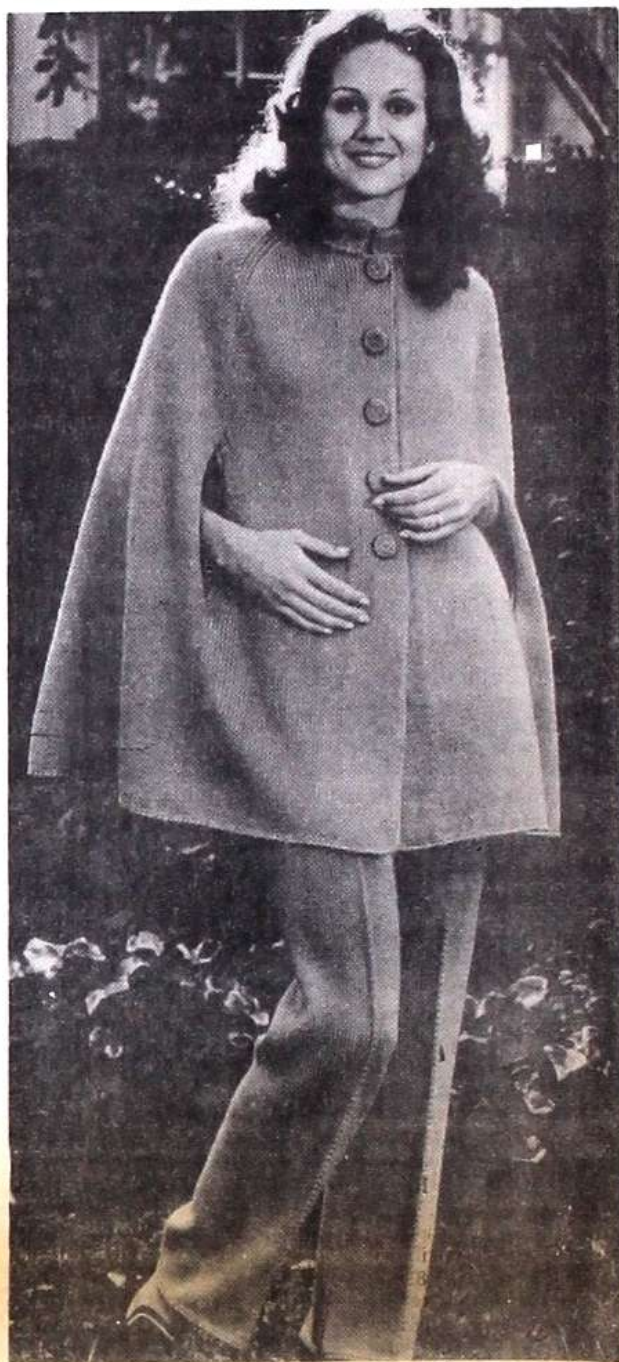

The honored pair, who reside at 14500 Martinsville Road, Belleville, were united in marriage August 23, 1922, in Ypsilanti. They continue to live in the home where James was born and raised and where they reared their own six children: Mrs. Thomas (Margaret) Kinney of Denver, Colorado; Mrs. John (Jean) Orskey, James C. Renton, and Charles Renton, all of Belleville; Mrs. Jim (Rose) Neibauer of Baroda, Michigan; and Donald S. Renton of Belleville. There are also 19 Renton grandchildren.

Close to 70 guests attended the two o'clock buffet dinner party including the couple's close friend, Mrs. Gertrude Letter Miller of Mount Dora, Florida, who was maid of honor at the wedding a half century ago; and Mrs. Marian Renton Whichello of Gulliver in the Upper Peninsula, who'd served as ringbearer. Others arrived from Wyandotte, Ypsilanti, Saline, Milan, and Belleville, and signed the guest book circulated by Mrs. James Renton.

The senior Mr. Renton was a bus driver for Van Buren Public Schools for 34 years before his retirement. He also worked a large farm on Martinsville Road on which three of his children and their families now reside. He and Mrs. Renton are members of the First United Methodist Church of Belleville and the Senior Citizens Club of Belleville.

SUPERBLY SUITED — The clear-cut, well-proportioned lines of a new Cape Pantsuit should add variety to your life — and your fall wardrobe. The superb tailoring owes its beauty to the simplicity of stockinette stitch and 4-ply yarn. Full-fashioned seams, crocheted buttons and a stand-up collar with rope trim, are added details which make it unmistakably your own and not something off the rack. A good basic skirt pattern is also included so you can have three dynamic interchangeable for the many lives of today's women. Sizes 8 to 16 (34 to 42) are given for the skirt and pants. One size fits all for the Cape. TO ORDER: HAND KNIT 760 KNIT CAPE, PANTS AND SKIRT send $1.50 in currency, check or money order to Lois Holmes of California, (Daily Eagle) Box 6002, Inglewood, Calif. 90301. Please print your name, address, ZIP code and pattern numbers plainly. Send 15 cents for EACH pattern for first-class mail and special handling or 25 cents EACH for air-mail.

Ecology is topic at Garden Club

The Huron Valley Garden Club met Monday, August 7, at the home of Mrs. Don Carlson of Harmony Lane with 17 members and one guest present.

Mrs. Adger Wall presided at the business meeting with all reports read and approved. The secretary read a letter to the club from Mrs. James Fitch who is spending the summer near Sears, Michigan.

The group welcomed a new member, Mrs. Dale Kaulitz of Stanley Drive. Mrs. Leo Gloyd was reported in poor health.

Mrs. D.W. Blend was in charge of the afternoon program and introduced the hostess, Mrs. Carlson, who spoke on "Ecology."

The Edison Park and Belleville Lake were discussed and questions and answers entered into by several members. A social hour followed adjournment.

Mower tips

Summer and lawn mowers go together like love and marriage. Since you can't have one without the other, follow these rules outlined by Mr. Lawn Mower Safety — your local power mower retailer: 1) Read the owner's manual thoroughly and understand your machine before you begin. 2) Keep children and pets out of the yard while you're working. 3) Stop the engine when you leave the mower, even for a minute. 4) Keep your feet away from the blades when starting and running the mower. 5) Never pull the mower towards you — always push.

Fresh ambrosia, a summer treat

A classic ambrosia is simply elegant and elegantly simple—a combination of fresh fruit and Baker's Angel Flake Coconut. By today's diet conscious standards, this understated dessert is a welcome ending to any dinner. But in bygone days, it was served as a symbol of outrageous luxury because of the rarity of its costly tropical ingredients. Many variations on the ambrosia theme have been devised by good cooks, but the one ingredient is constant. Coconut must be included for the dessert to qualify as "ambrosia."

For summer entertaining, try this recipe for Summer Ambrosia — a delightful combination of fresh pineapple, oranges, seedless grapes, rum, and Baker's Angel Flake Coconut. It's elegant and representative of the bright shades of summer.

Summer Ambrosia

1 fresh pineapple, cut in bite-size pieces
1/4 cup confectioners sugar
1 teaspoon rum extract
1-3 cups (about) flaked coconut
3 oranges, sectioned
1/2 pound seedless grapes, separated into small bunches
Or use 1/4 cup rum.

Combine pineapple and sugar; chill overnight. Sprinkle rum extract over coconut and toss to flavor coconut. Combine coconut, pineapple, and orange sections. Chill thoroughly. Serve garnished with grapes. Makes 6 cups or 12 servings.

Six 'North' cheerleaders attend camp

Six students from North Junior High School represented their school at the U.S. Cheerleaders Association's summer camp at Walden Woods near Brighton. Attending the four-day session last week were varsity (ninth grade) and junior varsity (eighth grade) cheerleaders: Kathy Kinsella, Cindy Howton and Robin Moore and Janice French, Lisa Chen and Carol Smith.

Among those attending from Indiana, Illinois, Ohio, and Michigan, the group competed as a unit during competition each evening and also learned cheers, chants, acrobatics, and formations.

Soup 'n sandwich

Place a slice of bologna and 2 slices of American cheese between 2 slices of whole wheat bread. Butter outside of bread and grill over medium heat until browned on both sides. A bowl of scotch broth is a good accompaniment.

FOOD OF THE GODS — Once considered by Romans and Greeks to be the food of the gods, Ambrosia is now available to the masses. In bygone days, cooks served ambrosia as a symbol of outrageous luxury because of the rarity of its costly tropical ingredients. Today, this elegantly simple and simply elegant dessert is a welcome ending to any dinner because it's light and refreshing and just the right thing for summer appetites. Summer Ambrosia combines flaked coconut with fresh pineapple, orange sections, green grapes, and rum extract for a truly ambrosial treat. (Courtesy Baker's Angel Flake Coconut)

Mrs. Gault returns home from trip to Scandinavia

By Mrs. Joseph Spring
OX 9-4021

Mrs. Winnifred Gault of Roland St. recently returned from a three week tour of Finland, Norway, Sweden, and Denmark with friends from South Carolina. While at the Polar Circle in the Land of the Midnight Sun, they toured an iron mine where they were told there was ore enough to last 200 years.

Other highlights of the trip were visiting several castles and cathedrals and the home of Selma Lagerlof, the Nobel Prize winner for literature.

Rev. and Mrs. Douglas Simmons with sons, Paul and Michael, of Kansas City, Missouri, arrived last Thursday to spend some time with his mother, Mrs. Carl Simmons, of Liberty St. and other relatives. The Simmons family just recently moved from Minneapolis, Minn., to Kansas City where he will be second priest at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in that city.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bradshaw of Ypsilanti entertained at a family dinner Wednesday evening, Aug. 9, in honor of the former's mother, Cora Bradshaw, on her birthday. Present for the occasion were her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Artley, of Flat Rock; five sisters; the Don Smith and John Rockwell families; and a niece, Elizabeth Leschinsky, all from Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lilley left for their home at Selma, Alabama, after having spent a week with Mrs. Lilley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Shirley of Wexford St.

On Monday, Aug. 7, Mrs. George Robson of Tyler Rd. entertained at a luncheon honoring a former Belleville resident, Mrs. Edgar Kidd, now of Ida, on her birthday. Others present were Mrs. Lester Haywood of Dearborn, Miss Ellen Gould of Ypsilanti, Mrs. R. G. Atyeo, Mrs. James Haveranek, Mrs. Lavern Sayre, and Mrs. Henry Sager.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Wiley of Rialto, Calif., have been spending some time with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Shirley, of Wexford St.

Recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Stevens of E. Huron River Dr. were the latter's mother, Mrs. Chester Shoup, of Morenci, and a sister-in-law, Mrs. Ruth Shoup, of Le Ann Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Potts of Wabash St. returned home on Sunday of last week after having spent several days with their son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Potts, and their family at St. Charles, Illinois.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Saunders and small daughter, Kristen, left last Thursday afternoon for their home at Weare, New Hampshire, after having spent some time with his parents, the Clayton Saunders of Liberty St. and her mother, Mrs. Harold Klais of River Rouge.

Mrs. Russell Wilson and daughter, Janice of Elwell Rd. and Mrs. Elmer Kerkes and family of Milan returned home on Monday of last week after having spent several days in Northern Michigan. Making their headquarters at St. Ignace, they visited Mackinac Island, took the boat trip through the locks at the Soo, and the railroad trip along the Tahquamenon River to the falls, and visited friends at Brevort Lake.

Enroute home they toured the Orchards at Caro, and enjoyed dinner with the Wilson's son, Dennis, at Frankenmuth.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kinney left last Wednesday for their home in Denver, Colorado, after having spent a week with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Renton, of Martinsville Rd.

For snack table

These sweet and sour franks are a real hit as a hot hor d'oeuvre. Slice the ends off of 2 packages (1 pound each) skinless frankfurters and refrigerate for use in scrambled eggs, sandwiches or soup. Slice the remaining frankfurters into 1/2 inch slices. Heat one 10-ounce jar grape jelly and one 12-ounce bottle chili sauce together until combined. Add frankfurter slices; heat thoroughly. Makes 100 pieces.

A postman, walking his route, travels about eight miles a day.

Double wedding on the horizon

THE JOHN PATKE household out on Ecorse Road is a busy place these mid-August days since the double wedding of their daughters, Kathy and Karen, is just a week and a half away. The two prospective brides, who've set an August 26 altar date, were honored at a dual shower recently given by Mrs. Ben Phillips of Milan.

Some 22 guests from Milan, Adrian and Belleville enjoyed an evening of bridal-theme games and the buffet lunch which followed. Then it was time for the opening of gifts at which Cindy Hammond of Belleville and Laura Ann Hammond of Milan assisted.

The Patke's isn't the only place that's busy with wedding preparations, though, since the George Hammond home on Savage Road has a great deal to do with the future nuptials, their sons, Larry and Dennis, being the future bridegrooms of Kathy and Karen. St. John's Lutheran Church in Westland will be the setting for the wedding.

ANOTHER RECENT shower was given for Karen by her close friend and neighbor, Linda Lewis of Ecorse Road. Tagging the event "personal" the hostess entertained with several games following the one o'clock luncheon.

A yellow and white color scheme was used with parasols, candles and a special shower cake as focal points. The 18 guests attending the August 5 party were mostly Belleville High School classmates of the honoree.

Heidi blows out her first candle

CUTE LITTLE Heidi Renee Martin, who made her debut one year ago, August 6, at Beyer Hospital, was a 'birthday girl' Sunday as her mother and dad, Sally and Harold Martin, entertained in honor of the occasion.

Arriving at the Martin's Phyllis Street home in Wayne were Heidi's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Roberts of Belleville and Mr. and Mrs. D.M. La Fave of Inkster, as well as aunts, uncles, and friends.

A barbeque dinner, along with homemade ice cream and cake made in the shape of the numeral 'one', were the highlights of the afternoon.

Sue Crawford is honored

BRIDE-TO-BE Sue Crawford was honoree at a miscellaneous bridal shower held at the home of Mrs. Henry Polzin of High Street. Hostesses at the party were Sue's future bridesmaids, Dawn Bruder, Ronda Reed, Pat McLain, Debbie Polzin, and Judy Janack.

Bingo was the evening entertainment after which buffet style refreshments were served. A cake, especially decorated for the occasion, was made by aunt of the prospective bridegroom, Mrs. Russell Van Buhler, Jr. of Taylor.

Fifty friends and relatives came from Dearborn, Taylor, Wyandotte, Livonia, Plymouth, Dexter, Ypsilanti, Romulus, and Belleville to shower the honored guest with gifts.

Sue, daughter of the Walt Crawfords of Liberty Street, and Bob Polzin, son of Mrs. Henry Polzin of High Street, have reserved St. Anthony's Church for their September 2 wedding.

Farewell, birthday marked at party

THE LEONARD HUDGES, who'd been 'back home' in Michigan for the past seven weeks, departed from Metro Airport Wednesday for their home in Tarpon Springs, Florida.

The evening before leaving, they enjoyed being together with their family at the new home of their youngest son and wife, Jim and Shirley Hudge of Rawsonville Road, whose get-together also served a dual purpose - that of the celebrating the second birthday of their daughter, Theresa, who delighted in blowing out her two candles in front of her cousins.

Present for the occasion, other than the Ed, Bill, Tom, and Jim Hudge families and the Bert Smiths, were Shirley's mother and sister, Mrs. Amy Southward and Nita, their houseguests from Tishamingo, Mississippi.

SEMCOG eyes area park expansion

A plan to preserve and develop Southeast Michigan's best parkland resources and prime farming areas has been adopted by the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG). The open space and recreation plan is one of the land use elements in SEMCOG's general development plan for Southeast Michigan in 1990.

Among its targets is to provide more major recreation facilities closer to the population center. Recreation areas in Western Wayne County slated for expansion or improvements include: Rouge River Parkways; expansion and improvement of 3,700 acres. Western Parkway Park, Canton Township; expansion to 1,700 acres. Willow Metro Park, Huron Township; expansion to 1,500 acres. Lower Huron Metro Park, Huron Township; addition of 700 acres. About three million persons — or two-thirds of the population — live within this central area but there are adequate regional park facilities for only one million of these persons within a one-hour's drive from their homes.

Further, about one-quarter of the households lack autos and few municipalities in this central area provide more than five acres of public recreation land for each 1,000 residents, compared with the accepted standard of 10 acres per 1,000. The plan outlines proposals for development of park facilities, acquisition of new areas, and a design for maintaining Southeast

Michigan's richest agricultural lands in farm production. SEMCOG proposes that the number of regional active recreation areas (500 acres or more) be increased from 15 to 34 with total acreage in this category expanded from 17,250 presently to 42,000. Some of the developed parks would require new land acquisition, others would be created on undeveloped land presently owned by government agencies. The SEMCOG proposal also suggests acquisition of 11 new sites totalling 18,000 acres to be added to the region's "bank" of acquired resource lands. This would boost the total acreage in this category from 47,200 acres to 65,180 and the number of sites from 11 to 22.

Voters' park rejection slows development

Voter failure to okay an additional 1/4-mill tax for the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority (HCMA) will mean slower development of proposed park sites and the inability to redevelop Belle Isle.

This prediction was made by David O. Laidlaw, HCMA director, following Tuesday's rejection of the requested additional millage.

The count was 324,524 against the proposal, with 184,625 for it. In Wayne County, 195,362 voters rejected it, while 114,745 supported it. Voters in Livingston, Macomb, Oakland and Washtenaw counties also resoundingly turned the proposal down.

According to Laidlaw, the HCMA's first step will be to "analyze our financial situation, and the HCMA's Board of Commissioners will then decide on the authority's future course."

"We are disappointed that this park proposal has failed to win voter support at this time," Laidlaw said.

He noted that all millage requests met strong voter resistance in this primary election and that the authority's proposal was just one of several defeated by the voters.

"Maybe we have failed over the years to adequately inform the citizens of the need for future regional parks and the benefits they will receive from such an expanded system of metropolitan parks," continued Laidlaw.

"However, I do want to commend the recently formed Citizens Committee for Continuing Progress in Recreation for their marvelous efforts to inform the citizens of the district about this vital ballot issue."

He also stated that because the voters rejected the additional 1/4 mill, the authority will not be able to take over and redevelop Belle Isle because the project is too costly to undertake without added revenues.

Will probably review possible new sources of revenue at its parks or consider additional charges of some type in order to off set the growing costs of operations and maintenance which is now absorbing about two-thirds of its annual budget.

—Might continue to give consideration to the development of one or more of the proposed future park sites, but at a much slower pace than was proposed with additional funds.

State chamber issues education proposals

Michigan school districts could save $465 million a year in operating costs if they adopted 12 proposals developed by the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce.

Implementing a year-round school system and making better use of driver education training ranges could save $215 million alone, notes Harry R. Hall, state chamber president.

In addition, making use of new innovations in school construction could save each district 40 per cent of its annual building costs on all exterior construction.

These three new proposals join nine other chamber-sponsored, money-saving ideas developed earlier that would save the additional $250 million each year. All have been thoroughly researched by the chamber's education specialists and a volunteer task force of businessmen and approved by the board of directors.

"The increasing demand for more money for school operations is based on the myth that a perennial boost in budgets will cure all the ills of education," Hall said. "Unless taxpayers unalterably insist that existing human and financial resources be utilized more effectively, there will be neither adequate education nor adequate public dollars for anything else. It is our firm conviction based on well-documented research, that education has adequate funds to meet present and future needs if long overdue internal structural and program reforms are made."

"The proposals of the state chamber are designed to reallocate existing funds, to improve educational achievement and to abruptly halt the intolerable tax increases at the state and local level," he said. "The education crisis cannot be solved by more dollars. It can be solved by more education per dollar."

By implementing a year-round school system, districts could save taxpayers $200,000,000 a year in school construction and debt costs alone.

Basically, the state chamber has four plans for year-round school organizations that, according to the proposal, will "permit better utilization of existing facilities and properties and curtail total costs of education while improving educational achievement."

Briefly, the principal types of year-round school plans are:

- Trimester, composed of three 78-day sessions in which the school day is lengthened from six to seven hours and the students attend 156 instead of the usual 180 days. Two-thirds of the students are in attendance at a time with one-third on vacation.
- Quarter divides students into four groups, each group attending three 12-week sessions and vacationing, according to family units, the other.
- In the 45-14 method, students are also divided into four groups with each group attending school for 45 class days and having 15 days off. In this method the classes scheduled are staggered 15 days apart so only three of the four groups are in class at a time.
- The Quinquennial system also divides school time into 45-day units with four comprising the school year and the fifth as a vacation period.

With these ideas in mind, the proposal will save money by eliminating the need for new construction, since building is done either to take care of expanding student populations or to renovate old buildings. Both could be eliminated since the schools would be in constant use. Old buildings could be closed down and present ones used to take care of increased enrollments.

Advantages to the program, according to the chamber, include being able to more easily find jobs for the students since they would filter into the market year-round instead of just the summer months, being able to plan new types of courses that need extra time, having shorter vacations more frequently, helping eliminate late-summer juvenile delinquency that is frequent now, and better utilization of equipment and schools.

An additional $982,800 could be saved if schools used their own driving ranges more and city street driving less in driver's education courses.

The new state chamber-sponsored proposal suggests that this plan would increase the pupil-teacher ratio from 3-1 for on-the-street experience to 18-1 for range training and, in the long run, saves taxpayers nearly $1 million.

"We're not advocating completely cutting out the on-the-street training, just cutting it down from the customary six hours a week to three," Hall said.

The Chamber's report further documents research studies indicating the multiple car method used on the driving range is just as effective as on-the-street method. And on-the-street training is still possible since between the time a student passes the course and receives his license, he must wait for 30 days. During this time, the study shows, he may work with his parents on a learner's permit.

Since the public is constantly turning down bond proposals for new school construction, it would make sense to think of the alternatives to building that new school, the state chamber recommends in its third money-saving proposal.

By seriously considering an alteration in the organization of grades and consolidating several districts into one unit, educators could make the best use of existing facilities and discourage the need for new ones.

The proposal further recommends that existing grade separations, K-6, 7-9, 10-12, be flexible so that current building facilities are used to their best advantage as student population within each division changes.

The chamber also suggests that school districts with continuing facilities' problems consider consolidating with other districts, thus forming one unit and cutting building costs considerably.

These plans, coupled with a little foresight in building new facilities, can save school districts 40 per cent in exterior building costs each year, the chamber estimates.

Flexibility is the key word and new buildings should be designed to accommodate the entire community, not just school children. By using metal skin or pre-finished, water-proofed, concrete blocks for outside construction, districts could save about $2 per square foot in building costs.

Inside, if schools were planned with adequate lighting to eliminate the need for windows, thousands a year could be saved in window-cleaning costs alone, not to mention the savings due to vandalism, heat loss and the cost of shades and drapes for windows.

In 1971 the public turned down almost $190 million in bond proposals for construction of new school facilities. The state chamber feels it would be better to cut the costs of construction and eliminate the chance of monies not being approved for important educational needs.

An additional $250 million savings can be implemented by cutting back on staff expenditures.

These cuts include increasing the pupil-teacher ratio, repealing teacher tenure, hiring paraprofessionals for supervisory positions like hall duty, lunch room supervision, etc., requiring teachers to spend 25 hours a week actually teaching and instituting cooperative purchasing arrangements among school districts.

The state chamber research shows that by increasing the pupil-teacher ratio from 24-1 to 30-1, schools can save $158,026,848 with the present teacher tenure system and $199,130,598 without it. The chamber has documented that the increased student load has no detrimental effects on the individual's education.

This proposal goes hand in hand with one that would require teachers to spend at least 25 hours a week doing what they were hired for — teaching. This would eliminate the need to hire new teachers and get the highly-paid help — teachers who make $7 to $8 an hour — out of lunchroom supervision and into teaching.

For these principally supervisory tasks, the state chamber proposes hiring paraprofessionals at half the cost of the teachers and allowing them not only to take over in study halls and lunch rooms, but help with grading simpler tests — like multiple choice.

If the repeal of the Teacher Tenure Act were added to this list, the schools could further cut their expenditures by getting rid of incompetent or unproductive teachers who are at the top of their salary scales and hiring younger ones to replace them.

If school districts pooled their purchasing efforts, a state chamber-conducted survey proves they could save $1.6 million for each one per cent savings. It can be done with proper leadership and a solid set of purchasing guidelines developed by the state department of education.

New Lutheran church formed

The Rev. Harold E. Koch was installed as the first pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Apostles at 9:30 a.m. Sunday.

The installation ceremonies were held in the VFW Memorial Hall, 44170 Bemis Rd. Preaching this sermon and conducting the service for the installation of Pastor Koch was the Rev. Alan W. Kamens, who is assistant to the president, the Rev. Dr. Frank P. Madsen, of the Michigan Synod of the Lutheran Church in America.

The new congregation was formally organized in May of this year with Rev. Madsen preaching the sermon and conducting the services.

Church of the Apostles was one of three new congregations received into the Michigan Synod in its recent convention in Traverse City. The other two are St. Philips Workers in Detroit and Fellowship of the Acts in Ann Arbor. These three congregations bring to 132 the number of LCA congregations in the Michigan Synod.

Pastor Koch announced his congregation will move from temporary worship facilities in the VFW Hall into the Seventh Day Adventist Church, 105 N. Liberty St., Belleville.

The first service will be conducted at 9:30 a.m. Sept. 3 Sunday Church School classes for all ages will be held at 10:45 a.m. Sept. 10.

County millage query will be presented again

"It will be necessary to put the Wayne County millage renewal question before the voters again," County Board Chairman Robert E. FitzPatrick said following the narrow loss of County Proposition B in the Aug. 8 primary election.

The 1-mill renewal lost by the thin margin of one-half of one per cent — 1,574 votes out of a total of 318,436 votes cast in Wayne County. The final unofficial tally was 158,431 for and 160,005 against.

Jaycees to use land for concert

The Romulus Jaycees have been granted permission by the Romulus City Council to use city-owned property on Henry Ruff Road for an outdoor concert.

The concert is scheduled to be held on Aug. 24.

In answer to an inquiry from the council as to possible crowd and traffic problems, the Jaycees reported club members will be assigned to "police" the anticipated crowds and traffic in the same fashion as was performed in the Jaycees' recent Spring Festival and Parade.

In other action, the council tabled the adoption of ordinances which would establish salaries for city officials and set up a compensation commission.

It granted a request from Frank J. Tolish, city recreation director, to consult with the city's legal counsel for the drafting of a proposed agreement between the city and the Romulus City Players regarding future productions.

The council approved the transfer of funds from the city's contingency fund to the assessor's capital outlay fund for the purchase of $541.12 calculator for the assessor's office.

Council failed to act on a request by the Romulus Building Authority for a decision on its proposed plans for the construction of a new court building for the 34th District Court because no one appeared at last Thursday's council meeting relative to the request.

The matter was deleted from the council's agenda.

"The fact that the vote was so close shows there is wide community agreement with our contention that renewal of the 1-mill was vital at this time for the sake of sound financial planning," FitzPatrick stated. "It is gratifying to the thousands who worked in behalf of County Proposition B that it nearly passed, while other important millage proposals lost by huge margins."

"For the same compelling reasons that the proposition was on the primary ballot, it will be necessary to put the question before the voters in a future election. The county budget crisis is very dire, and unavoidable additional costs will make it worse."

"In view of our anticipated budget deficit of up to $15 million, it will be extremely difficult to avoid further, disastrous curtailment of already-minimal county services next fiscal year, now that we do not have the assurance that revenue from the 1-mill will be forthcoming after Nov. 30, 1974."

"Fiscal responsibility requires that we prepare in advance to take the financial blow when it comes."

FitzPatrick said the County Board of Commissioners, in consultation with other important segments of the community, could decide to put the 1-mill renewal on the ballot either in the November general election or in conjunction with next year's municipal elections.

A last-ditch effort could be made in the 1972 state-wide elections, "But this would mean the county would have to provide minimal services in a nightmarish financial situation for two more years," FitzPatrick added.

"A number of complicated factors must be analyzed carefully before a decision is made," he said. Among them is the fact that the commissioners intend to place a capital improvement proposal on the November ballot.

It would finance court-ordered jail facilities and perhaps an out-county juvenile court and detention home, as recommended in a year-long study. The amount of the millage — expected to be 1-mill or less — and its duration have not been decided yet by the Commissioners.

Some 720 jobs at county facilities are expected to be vacant by the Nov. 30 end of this fiscal year as a result of an $8 million budget "freeze" imposed by the commissioners to minimize the deficit. In spite of the freeze, an $12-$15 million deficit is anticipated due to inflation and cost increases imposed by court and legislative mandates.

Machine firm to expand

Metro Machine Sales, located at 23171 North Line Rd., Romulus, has been granted a permit by the Romulus Building Department to construct an addition to its present facilities.

The firm's expansion program will involve the construction of an 80 by 150-foot cement block building on the south side of North Line Rd., between Middlebelt and Inkster Roads.

Estimated construction cost is reported to be $65,000.

Lewis telethon seeks club help

Representatives of clubs and civic organizations in Western Wayne County are being invited to appear in person on locally televised segments of the 1972 Jerry Lewis Telethon for Muscular Dystrophy.

The 20 hour, star-studded show — emanating live from New York — will be carried locally by WKBD-TV (Channel 50) on Sept. 3-4.

WKBD will "cut away" from the Lewis show for 10 minutes each hour to feature local club leaders making "on camera" contributions to MD patients at Channel 50's special "remote" location at the Michigan State Fairgrounds.

The local segments will be broadcast in front of a "live" audience in the fairgrounds' Community Arts Auditorium. "Cut away" hosts will be area, TV and sports figures.

Richard J. Miller, Bank of the Commonwealth vice president and president of Muscular Dystrophy's Greater Detroit-Southeastern Michigan chapter, said that the local TV segments will "finally give recognition to area organizations who traditionally work so hard for the benefit of their communities."

A special brochure "Put Yourself in the Picture" is available, free of charge, to local clubs and organizations wishing to appear on the Telethon. Brochures may be obtained by calling 399-8800, or writing Jerry Lewis Telethon, 400 West Marshall, Ferndale, Mich. 48220.

A THOUGHT TO REMEMBER

BY HAROLD REDISKE, DIRECTOR

It seems wherever you look, here or abroad, something is wrong. Few things seem right. Throughout Asia, the middle East, place after place in Europe, and here at home — Washington, New York, Chicago — you name it. Problems exist everywhere. Inflation, sickness, heart disease, mental disorders, violence, lawlessness, pollution, dissenters, demonstrators, and again — you name it.

Yet, with it all, somehow or other, with all these sticky problems, life is STILL livable. Could it be that these problems, bad as they are, are really not as bad as they seem to be? Have we created a fear of fear? Are we blinding ourselves in a darkness of despair by refusing to open our eyes to the sunshine of exuberance, good cheer and hopefulness? Do we believe that because lots of tranquilizers are being bought and used, that EVERYBODY is using them? MOST people don't use them! Remember that! Remember too that while all of us may be living in a dangerous age, it need not be a disastrous age for any of us. Speaking for ourselves, we firmly believe a new order will be reborn with righteousness and justice. We hope to see it and be a part of it. What about you?

Music store opens in Romulus

A new music store — The Music Center — has opened in the City of Romulus. Located at 9297 S. Wayne Rd., the store offers assorted records, record albums, musical instruments and other related items.

Owned and operated by partners Douglas Brown of 4827 Mildred St., Wayne, and Miss Chris Nazarchuk of New Boston, the new establishment offers music lessons for guitar, organ and piano. Private lessons are available in the store's studios.

Both Miss Nazarchuk and Brown are organists. Brown is a professional organist and Miss Nazarchuk a church organist.

Teachers for those seeking private music lessons will be provided. Brown was born in Detroit and his partner at Ford Hood, Texas. Both graduated from area high schools, Brown from Wayne Memorial High School and Miss Nazarchuk from Huron Senior High School.

The hours of The Music Center are from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily, excluding Sundays. The telephone number is 941-8484.

52 building permits okayed

Fifty-two building permits approving $756,486 in building projects were issued in July by the Romulus Building Department, Clayton W. Meldrum, manager, reported Monday.

Residential construction amounted to $43,254 of the month's total, and industrial building amounted to $670,600.

There were 17 permits issued for the construction of garages and carports with construction costs of $29,750. There were eight permits issued for the construction of swimming pools with a total construction cost of $10,862.

The heating division of the building department issued 37 permits and collected $521 in fees. The electrical division issued 71 permits and collected $1,461 in fees, and the plumbing division issued 61 permits and collected $1,260 in fees.

The total number of permits issued by the department was 440, and the total fees collected in July amounted to $8,014.

Tax collections down from '71

Current tax collections in the City of Romulus are below the collection level last year at this time, City Treasurer Albert Glinski reported Monday as he announced taxpayers can pay their taxes without penalty before Sept. 30.

The 1972 city tax and 50 per cent of the 1972 school tax millage are due July 1 and payable up to Sept. 30 without penalty. Beginning Oct. 1, a one-half of one per cent per month charge is added to the tax bill, Glinski said.

Taxes at present can be paid at the city treasurer's office or at any local bank branch in the city. After Oct. 1, taxes can be paid only at the city hall.

The county tax and the remainder (50 per cent) of the school millage is due Dec. 1 and payable up to the end of February without penalty.

The December tax bills have yet to be sent to taxpayers. The city hall is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays for the collects of taxes.

Monkeybar Fun Week proclaimed

Mayor Hyle J. Carmichael of Romulus has designated the week of Aug. 21-27 as Michigan Neighborhood Playground Learning and Monkeybar Fun Week in the City of Romulus.

The Michigan Mothers Club, Inc. requested the mayor to proclaim the event in Romulus.

The week will be observed by communities with MMC chapters throughout the state, reports Mrs. Marie T. Clark, corresponding secretary for Van Born Area Moms Group.

The mayor's proclamation said:

Whereas, the Michigan Mothers Club, Inc. is dedicated to the health and well being of all children in Michigan; And whereas, the people of most communities in Michigan provide excellent playground facilities for children during the warm weather months;

And whereas, it is important for America's children to keep active physically and mentally during the summertime vacation period this year and in years to come; And whereas further, neighborhood playgrounds provide children not only the opportunity to exercise on modern, safe monkeybars, swings and other essential play equipment but also provide them with the chance to meet and learn to live with other children on their own, without the guidance of expensive teaching staffs;

Therefore, let it be resolved, that the City of Romulus does hereby declare the week of Aug. 21-27 Michigan Playground Learning and Monkeybar Fun Week.

Light installation initiated

The installation of a traffic control light at the intersection of Middlebelt and Beverly roads has been initiated.

Romulus Police Chief Jacob J. Koch, in a communication to the Romulus City Council, reported the Wayne County Road Commission has announced the light will be in operation by Labor Day — in time for the opening of school.

City Councilman James C. Stewart, elated over the report said, "We've been trying for more than six months to get that traffic control light installed. I am happy to hear that the project has been started."

Elwart to attend confab

Dr. Ray Elwart D.C. of Romulus will attend the 1972 annual Homecoming of Palmer College of Chiropractic, Davenport, Iowa, and will be away from his office from Aug. 18-20, it was announced Monday.

Dr. Ray Elwart will take part in the professional seminars to be held on the campus of his alma mater. Two full days of lecture presentations will be held on the subjects of chiropractic philosophy, science and art.

Dr. Ashley Montagu, one of the most versatile scientists in America, will speak at the Annual Alumni Banquet on Thursday evening. Dr. Montagu, noted for his many appearances on the NBC "Tonight" program, is also author of more than 20 books on the topics of anthropology and related fields.

Dr. Ray Elwart, in commenting on the Palmer College Homecoming, said, "It's always good to spend several days at my college, the Fountainhead of the profession, because it is here I have the opportunity of meeting with the top men of chiropractic, to share and learn with them. It's always a refreshing experience."

Cheerers walk away with award

The area winners of the fifth annual Thurman's Baton Twirling and Cheerleading Clinic recently held on the campus of Eastern Michigan University have been announced.

The "Golden Spirit Megaphone" was won by Huron High School of New Boston. Members of the cheerleading squad are Mona Prentice, 38426 Judd Rd., Belleville, Becky Hibbitts, 28591 West Rd., Cathy Higgins, 21600 Middlebelt Rd., Beth Bullard, 18500 Hannan Rd., Jolynn Goboly, 22373 Huron River Dr., and Sue Maiani, 38355 Pennsylvania Rd., all of New Boston.

GUITAR DISPLAY — Miss Chris Nazarchuk, 19, of New Boston, displays one of the guitars available at Romulus' new store — The Music Center — located at 9297 S. Wayne Rd. The store opened for business last week and offers besides records and musical instruments, music lessons for the guitar, organ and piano.

Income tax supported

The Van Buren Board of Education went on record Monday in support of the elimination of the property tax for school operation and in favor of the enactment of a graduated income tax for Michigan taxpayers.

The school board action came when asked by the Michigan Association of School Boards for advice regarding the property tax and graduated state income tax.

The board instructed the school superintendent to advise the association of the board's action.

The matter of a graduated state income tax will be on the November election ballot. The association has requested all school boards to take a position on the question of eliminating the property tax and using a graduated income tax.

Catching gambling pro cheater is often luck

Nevada casinos use 'eye in the sky' to keep odds favorable

RENO, Nev. — Like nearly everything else in the billion-dollar world of Nevada gambling, catching the quick-fingered professional cheater is often a matter of luck.

And although they don't win every time, for 25 years casinos have used the well-known but little-publicized "Eye in the Sky" to keep the odds in their favor.

Peering constantly over the would-be cheater's shoulder, the eye is the casino's relatively unsophisticated version of the all-seeing Big Brother. It is house security's best friend.

Usually armed only with the naked eye, the man in the "eye" hidden behind two-way mirrors keeps a constant watch for the "crossroads"—the professional cheater who blinks table games and slot machines of untold millions annually.

The eye in the sky—also dubbed "the catwalk" or "the lookout"—usually consists of a network of crawlspaces and two-way mirrors where trained observers can watch for cheaters.

EDITOR'S NOTE—Cheating at Nevada's gaming tables is on the wane. A surge of morality? Not really, say the experts. The credit goes to the "Catwalk," the "Lookout," or "Eye in the Sky," names for a network of crawlspaces and two-way mirrors by which trained observers spot those who would tip the balance of chance in their favor.

In the highly security conscious world of casino gambling, the two-way mirror has become the most effective deterrent to a professional thief. Nevada casinos win nearly $650 million each year, only a percentage of the total that is bet. It has been estimated that the professional cheater may steal up to $25 million. Exact figures, of course, are impossible to determine. But casino officials say confidently that cheating is on the decrease, and they give much of the credit to the omnipresent eye in the sky.

Although formats for the catwalk vary from casino to casino, the purpose of each is to provide the lookout with an unobstructed view of every square foot of the casino.

In one casino in Reno, the catwalk is a labyrinth of crawlways tucked between casino floors. The man in the eye can peer through mirrors located over bars, change booths, money counting rooms and even the stage in the show lounge.

Nevada casino executives long have been extremely secretive about their security methods. Although they have never denied the existence of the eye in the sky, they are reluctant to discuss specifics.

Almost never is an outsider allowed onto the catwalk. Even after agreeing to talk to a pair of newsmen recently, some questions didn't get answers. They won't say, for instance, how many people are on duty behind the mirrors.

It's part of the psychological game the casinos believe make the mirrors work. Even if there is only one man on duty, the cheater can't know where he is or what he is watching.

The men who prowl the catwalks are invariably ex-dealers, although on occasion one-time cheaters have been used. They are experts on all the major games and they know the ways of the slot machine.

One veteran lookout has been crawling the catwalks for five years. A compact 5 feet 6, 130 pounds, he's ideally suited for scampering over, under and around the many built-in obstacles on the catwalk.

At hand are cameras and videotape units. Candid snapshots of suspected cheaters decorate the walls inside the catwalk office.

As he peers through one of the hundreds of mirrored windows above the crowded casino floor, the lookout is hunting for what he calls "the unnatural."

"I'm looking for anything unusual," he says. "Anyone willing to cheat, whether it's a customer or an employee, has to do something out of the ordinary."

Things that would catch his eye might include someone looking around to see where the floor man is, a customer placing unusually large bets, or a dealer not using normal dealing procedures. Casino executives agree that cheating seems to be on the decrease.

"Because of the increase in types of surveillance and the fact it is getting better," a Harolds Club official said, "cheaters are finding it harder and harder to play."

4-H fair continues; many events planned

The 26th annual Wayne County 4-H Fair is now under way at the Wayne County 4-H Fairgrounds. The fair opened on Tuesday and will continue until Sunday.

The 1972 Wayne County 4-H Fair is "bigger and better" than any previous 4-H Fairs, officials reported.

The 4-H Fairgrounds is located on Quirk Road at the I-94 Expressway, near the City of Belleville.

This year there are more events scheduled, an increase in the number of livestock and animal entries and an expanded grandstand program.

Kicking off this year's 4-H Fair was a successful sixth annual Wayne County 4-H Fair parade which was held on Sunday. The fair's schedule of events include the following:

Today (Wednesday) will be Children's Day at the fair. At 2 p.m. an open pet show will be held. At 4:30 p.m. a dairy goat milking contest is scheduled and at 7:30 p.m. the grandstand program will get under way.

The program will consist of 4-H talent and presentation of the 4-H Queen. The judging of small animals will also take place on Wednesday.

Husband and Hog calling contests will be held today.

On Thursday, judging of vegetables and livestock will be held and at 4:30 p.m. a frog jumping contest is scheduled. The grandstand show will present a personality and 4-H talent contest.

On Friday at 10 a.m. there will be 4-H Club softball playoffs and at 7 p.m., a pony pulling contest at the grandstand.

On Saturday at 9 a.m. an open garden tractor pulling contest will be held and at 1 p.m., the 4-H Alumni Horse show will be held.

One of the highlights of the fair will be held at 7:30 p.m.—the presentation of awards for 4-H projects and prizes to the winners of the 4-H parade to be held on Sunday.

On Sunday at 6:30 a.m. a sunrise service will be held. At 9 a.m., registration for the open horse show will be available.

The 4-H open tractor operating contest will begin at 10 a.m. and at 1 p.m. the 4-H tractor plowing contests will be held.

At Elmwood

Danny Thomas to open

One of the most familiar faces of television, Danny Thomas comes to the Elmwood Casino for a nine-day engagement tomorrow through Saturday, August 26.

Sharing the stage will be singer Lee Dresser, with the Wally Schaefer Orchestra backing the acts and playing for dancing.

Thomas's long-running

Folk singer slated

Judy Collins, folk singer, will appear in concert at the Pine Knob Music Theatre at 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

Tickets priced at $6 and $4 for reserved seats and $3 for unreserved lawn seats are available at the Fisher Theatre box office, Pine Knob box office, and all J.L. Hudson stores.

Although she is a composer, she has made the work of other writers familiar to audiences. Miss Collins has interpreted songs by Bob Dylan, Richard Farina, Leonard Cohen, and Joni Mitchell.

In fact, it was through Judy's recordings of Cohen's "Suzanne" and Miss Mitchell's "Both Sides Now" that both of these writers gained national prominence.

The music Judy plays and sings on her most recent albums is lyric and poetic and her repertoire now includes not only Dylan, Cohen and Mitchell, but also Jacques Brel, Bertold Brecht and of course Judy Collins.

"Make Room For Daddy" TV series, followed by "Make Room For Grand Daddy," made him one of TV's biggest stars. He has also guested on countless variety and comedy shows.

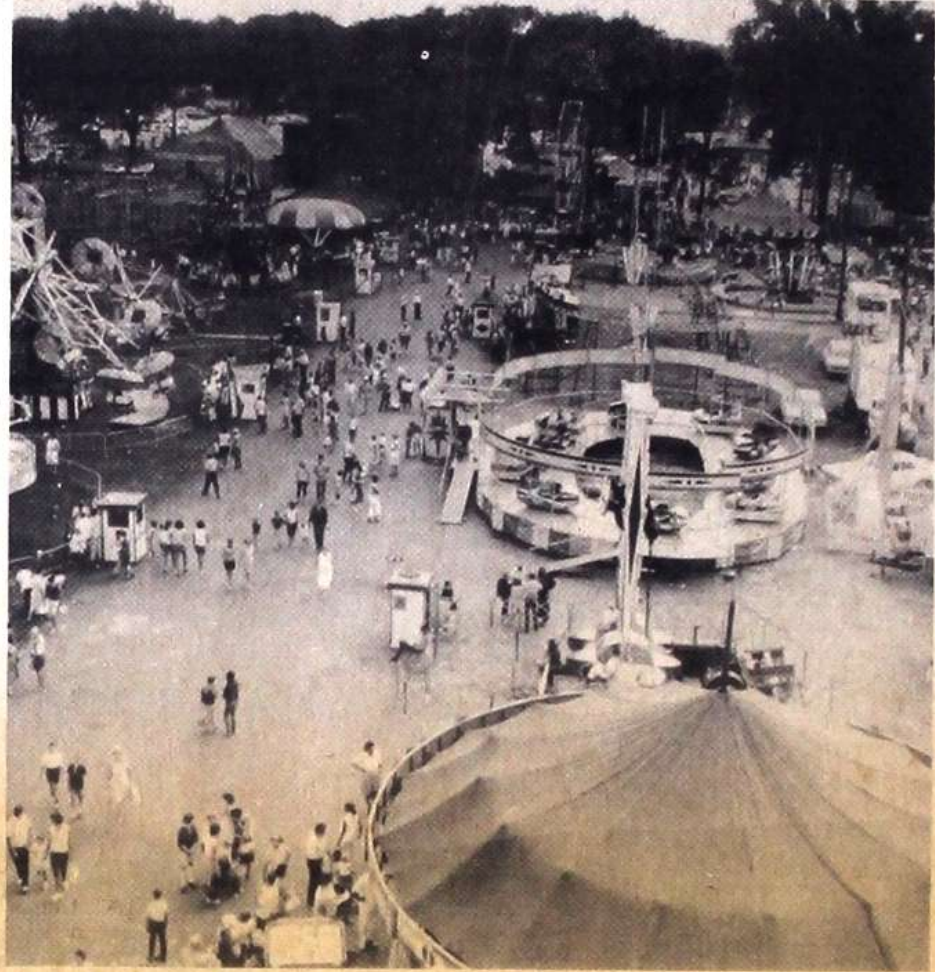

Thomas was born Amos Jacobs in Deerfield, Mich., and as a youngster moved to Toledo, where he became prominent as a student entertainer — as a writer, director and performer — at Woodward High School. He lost his amateur standing when he joined the professional ranks as a candy butcher in a downtown burlesque house.

Detroit was the scene of the beginning, in earnest, of Thomas's career. It was there that he started collecting his first regular paycheck performing for a radio station. He lived and performed in Detroit for several years before changing his name and moving on to stardom.

In addition to his many show business honors and achievements, Thomas established a foundation dedicated to the construction of St. Jude's Hospital in Tennessee. His support for the hospital has continued undiminished through the years.

Advance tickets for the Danny Thomas show at the Elmwood Casino are available at all Grinnell stores. Advance tickets guarantee seating in the Elmwood's Silver Horseshoe Section — tables surrounding the main level and first terrace.

Showtimes are 9:15 and 11:45 p.m. (Michigan time).

MAGIC OF THE MIDWAY — August is fair 'n festival time in Michigan. Home grown competition reigns supreme...hot dogs and cotton candy are the favorite repast...and the carnival calls the young and the young at heart. The Michigan State Fair, the daddy of them all, runs August 25 through September 10.

Music director to get master's

The Van Buren Board of Education Monday night approved a request for a release of contract made by Keith Drayton, director of the vocal music department of the Van Buren Schools.

Drayton, who resides at 2478 Oakdale Dr., Ann Arbor, and who has been under a continuous employment contract with the school system for the last five years, reported to the school board he has received an assistantship in music at the University of Southern Illinois. His wife, Patricia, also has an assistantship in Dietetics at the same university.

Both will study for masters degrees in vocal applied music and dietetics respectively. They planned to leave in September.

The board also approved a request by the Detroit Edison

Co. to cut and trim trees along the north property line at the North Junior High School.

In other action, the school board approved a recommendation submitted sometime ago by the school district's athletic council that the athletic department be granted a subsidy of $15,000 for the 1972-73 school year.

The subsidy was granted to the athletic department free and clear without reimbursement to the school system.

A resolution to join the Michigan High School Athletic Association also was adopted and approved.

The school board, at the request of the Michigan Association of School Boards elected its choice of candidates to serve on the board of directors of the association.

Selected were Dwayne Brooks, president of the Midland Board of Education, and an official of Dow Chemical, for the three-year term on the board, and for director-at-large, the board voted for incumbents Glenn Wolfe of Macomb County, and Mrs. Jane Reath of Fremont.

Theatre to end season

Macomb Theatre At-The-Barn concludes its 1972 Summer Season this week with the final four performances of "You Can't Take It With You."

This 1938 comedy of a New York family, which doesn't believe in working or paying taxes, but only in doing what most pleases them, has received high acclaim from many recent professional revivals.

Under the direction of Nancy Ann Kordos, guest director, "You Can't Take It With You" will play tomorrow through Sunday at 8 p.m. in the Barn Theatre, Hall Road (M-59) at Garfield, just five minutes west of the Utica exit at I-94. Admission is $2.50 per performance.

Reservations are strongly recommended and can be made by calling the Macomb Theatre At-The-Barn box office at 468-4822 through Sunday between noon and 5 p.m.

In response to public demand to extend the run of the Hilberry Repertory Company's summer production of Chekhov's "The Cherry Orchard," which closed Friday, the theatre has announced it will hold the play over for the 1972-73 season.

The play will reopen Friday, October 13.

The modern Russian classic, which was the top box office attraction of the summer festival, will play through December, alternating with the opening production of the new season, "The Three Musketeers," and the revival of last season's production of "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

In order to include "The Cherry Orchard" in the fall schedule, opening dates for all but the first new production have been moved to one week later than previously announced.

The new schedule of official openings for the new season is: Dumas' "The Three Musketeers" — November 16, Arthur Miller's "The Crucible" — January 11, Sheridan's "The School for Scandal" — February 1, Ben Jonson's "Volpone" — March 8, and Feydeau's "Cat Among the Pigeons" — April 12.

The sale for the 1972-73 season will open September 11, and brochures with complete information about the season will be available at that time. Phone requests for brochures and information will be accepted starting September 6 at 577-2972.

Mail requests should be addressed to Wayne State University Theatre Box Office, Detroit 48202.

The theatre will be dark until the October 6 reopening of "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

SELF-MADE SHIP BUILDERS — Tom Weedon (left), 33, of 41465 Fret Rd., Van Buren Township, with his brother, Ray Weedon, 30, of Ypsilanti sit inside the galley of the three-hull trimaran they recently built. The boat is 28 feet long with an 18-foot beam and is powered by sails and an auxiliary motor.

The brothers built the boat in the backyard of Tom's home from plans and designs submitted by a California boat designer. They started the project in April, 1971, and are now preparing the boat for a Detroit River launching.

State honored by AAA as safe pedestrian area

Michigan has been honored as one of the nation's safest areas for pedestrians with an Award of Excellence, the second highest honor for states in the 33rd annual National AAA Pedestrian Safety Inventory.

In recognition of Michigan's outstanding achievements in pedestrian safety programs in 1971, a special plaque has been presented to Gov. Milliken by Richard R. Dann, Automobile Club of Michigan executive vice-president.

Michigan received the award for Excellence on the basis of its legislative and safety control programs plus a significant reduction in pedestrian injuries in traffic the last two years," Dann stated.

"A 16 per cent drop in pedestrian injury accidents was recorded in Michigan the past two years," Dann pointed out. "The number of pedestrians injured went from 7,589 in 1969 to 6,402 in 1971."

"This significant decline is a major reason for this state being among the nation's leaders in traffic safety in 1970-71."

Michigan's 1971 pedestrian injury rate per 100,000 population was 71 as compared with an average of 77 for all competing states. The pedestrian death rate was 4.5 compared to 4.6 nationally in the inventory.

Auto Club points out that for the first half of 1972, Michigan has 131 pedestrian deaths, a 12 per cent drop over the first six months of 1971.

Michigan achieved a score of 100 per cent in pedestrian legislative phase of the inventory. National AAA commended the state legislature for reviewing and updating pedestrian laws, permitting local communities to enact pedestrian safety control programs and enabling the governor to do whatever is necessary to secure full benefits under the National Highway Safety Program.

The State Office of Highway Planning and State Police also were cited by National AAA for their efforts in improving pedestrian safety in Michigan.

The Award for Excellence was the 12th honor, including five first-place awards, Michigan has received in the AAA program since 1949. Last year was the first time Michigan was entered in the safety program since 1963.

Six Michigan cities also were named high award winners, including: Grosse Pointe Woods, Award for Excellence for cities in the 10,000 to 25,000 population class; Kalamazoo, special Citation for Pedestrian Award, 50,000 to 100,000 population class; Lansing, Special Citation, 100,000 to 200,000 population; Mount Clemens, Special Citation 10,000 to 25,000 population; Sparta, Award of Merit, under 10,000 population; Wayne, Award of Merit, 10,000 to 35,000 population.

Dog warden to get truck radio equipment

Radio equipment removed from the Romulus dog warden's truck by orders of Council President Jimmie Raspberry has been ordered re-installed by the city council.

The council at Thursday's session, mandated the Department of Public Works to re-install all radio equipment in the dog warden's truck as soon as possible. The council's action followed considerable discussion on the matter.

In July, while in his capacity as acting mayor (Mayor Hyle J. Carmichael was on an out-of-town vacation), Council President Jimmie Raspberry ordered the DPW to remove the radio equipment.

It was reported the driver of the dog warden's truck, which was operating on the radio frequency of the Wayne County Road Patrol of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department, was answering police calls and showing up on miscellaneous police runs by the sheriff's office.

Raspberry, who is currently out of town, took action to halt such operation pending the installation of the city's own radio dispatching system.

The city has ordered new radios and radio equipment for all city-owned vehicles by advertising for bids on July 25.

Councilman James C. Stewart reported that at a recent council discussion it was agreed to re-install the radio. "This radio has not been put back in operation regardless of city or sheriff frequency. The city leaves itself wide open for a law suit. I request that the radio be installed immediately," he said.

Stewart also disclosed that he had inquired at a previous executive council session about the orders to remove the radio and was not given a satisfactory answer.

Councilman Brooker R. Edwards said some directive should be given to the DPW to have this radio re-installed.

"I understand the new radios ordered by the city will take some time to get into operation. Citizens recently calling the dog pound couldn't get any service. We could leave the radio in the truck until our dispatching system is finally set up."

City Clerk Leonard J. Folmar reported the deadline for accepting bids on the new radios and related equipment is three or four weeks away. Edwards, in commenting on the radio removal, disclosed that Raspberry has had a "change of heart."

Councilman Edmund W. Bizek supported Edwards in his motion to direct the DPW to re-install the radio, and the council approved it.

Romulus Pound Master George Hartgrove reported several calls involving serious situations in the city were not answered due to the inability of contacting the dog warden's truck.

He said the dog pound receives at least 25 calls per day involving not only dogs but other assorted cases.

Recently, the pound received a rattlesnake, alligator, pigs, a pony, cows and even a horse. The animal shelter is located at 35257 Goddard Rd., Romulus.

A request made by Hartgrove for an additional employee to be used at the pound was approved by the council. Mayor Carmichael was instructed to make use of an employee hired under the Emergency Employment Act funds (EEA).

'Ship-ahoy' approaches for pair's dream project

The launching of the dream project of a Van Buren Township man and his brother is just a few weeks away.

In April, 1971, Thomas Weedon, 33, of 41465 Fret Rd., and his brother, Ray, 30, of 126 College Place, Ypsilanti, began constructing a 28-foot-long ocean-going boat in the backyard of the Fret Road residence.

The boat, being readied for launching, is a three-hull trimaran, a new type of watercraft which has been out for about 10 years. Very few design plans are available to work from, the brothers said. Their plans were designed by Edward Horstman of California.

The brothers, who were both raised in northern Michigan and love the water, decided to build the boat instead of a summer cottage as their means of summer recreation for their families.

After checking available designs, which were unsatisfactory, the brothers contacted Horstman in California. He drew desired plans and blueprints and sent them to the Weedons.

They began to build the hulls separately in the backyard. When the hulls were completed, they were moved around to the front of the Fret Road home, where other facilities and boat sections were added.

The boat's deck is flushed and unobstructed. It is to be powered by a Chrysler marine engine (outboard) which has been installed in an inside well of the boat.

The boat's 40-foot-high main mast was scheduled to be completed this week and attached to the boat's main deck. It has a 18-foot wide cabin and sleeps six.

At the start of their boat building project, Ray and Tom worked on the hulls in a plastic shelter which had to be abandoned as the boat grew in size. However, this did not deter the brothers from continuing on their dream boat every available hour and day.

Ray, who served a tour of duty in the U.S. Army (his brother served in the U.S. Air Force) described plans for launching their boat on the Detroit River and sailing to Nick's Marina, located two miles south of the northern tip of Grosse Ile on the Detroit River.

The boat will be towed over a special designated route from Van Buren Township to the Detroit River.

Ray reported the State Highway Department will lay out the 30-mile route, which will be only on county roads. The Wayne County Road Commission also will be involved in the boat's transportation.

"The boat will be moved the same way houses are removed and transported. A car in front and back of the boat will be used to alert traffic along the way. We have to get a permit for the boat's transportation," Ray said. "We don't expect to have any trouble in this regard," he added.

Ray said an overhead crane will have to be used to launch the boat. There is one available at the Nick's Marina.

The boat will be moored at Toledo Beach Marina.

Blood stop slated

Arrangements are being made for a bloodmobile program at St. Aloysius Church, 1280 Ozga Rd., Romulus, sponsored by the Christian Service Committee of the church.

The bloodmobile will also accept donors from surrounding communities and organizations.

The date is to be announced. For additional information, call Bill Bucinski, West Regional Office, American Red Cross, 274-5450.

County commissioners abolish child center governing body

The seven-member governing board of the Wayne County Child Development Center will be abolished next month under an ordinance adopted by the County Board of Commissioners.

From then on, the superintendent of the residential school for educable retarded children will report directly to the Board of Commissioners and its committees.

Parish festival scheduled

The annual St. Joseph Parish Homecoming Festival will be held from noon to 6 p.m. on Aug. 27 at St. Joseph Catholic Church, 9425 Whitaker Rd., located 1/4-mile south of Willis Road.

There will be a chicken broil served in the church's pine tree grove. Booths will be set up, and games and rides for children also will be available. Five prizes will be awarded. The price of the dinner is $2 per adult, $1.75 for children under 12 years of age. Proceeds of the festival will be used to help reduce the church debt.

The Child Development Center has been governed by an administrative board appointed by the county legislative body since the school was opened as the Wayne County Training School in 1926.

Elimination of the administrative board was among the alternatives recommended recently by a citizens committee appointed by the commissioners to evaluate the center's operation.

The Board of Commissioners amended the original ordinance governing the Child Development Center to eliminate the administrative board. Effective date of the amendment is Sept. 27.

"This action is another step in the Board of Commissioners continuing effort to improve the county administrative structure," said Board Chairman Robert E. FitzPatrick.

"Under the old, indirectly-chosen Board of Supervisors, the county government operated by what amounted to remote control through a maze of boards and commissions not directly accountable to the voters.

"Every study of the county structure has recommended that this maze of semi-autonomous appointed bodies, which some people have called a 'shadow government,' be simplified."

The Board of Commissioners also amended the ordinance governing Wayne County General Hospital, effective Sept. 27, to place three commissioners on the hospital governing board, the Board of County Institutions.

Under the amendment, three commissioners will replace the three citizens serving on the five-member hospital board by appointment of the Board of Commissioners. The two other members are appointed by the County Board of Auditors.

now receive $4,500 annually with the chairman getting $5,000.

FitzPatrick pointed out that the hospital, with a budget of $36.2 million, is the county's largest department.

"It is critically important that the closest possible liaison exist between the hospital and the Board of Commissioners. Having three commissioners on the hospital board will ensure that degree of liaison," FitzPatrick said.

A recent study of the county government by consultants recommended the hospital and Child Development Center boards be abolished.

Debate workshop attended

Two Belleville residents were among the more than 180 high school students from across the United States who recently attended a debate workshop at Texas Christian University.

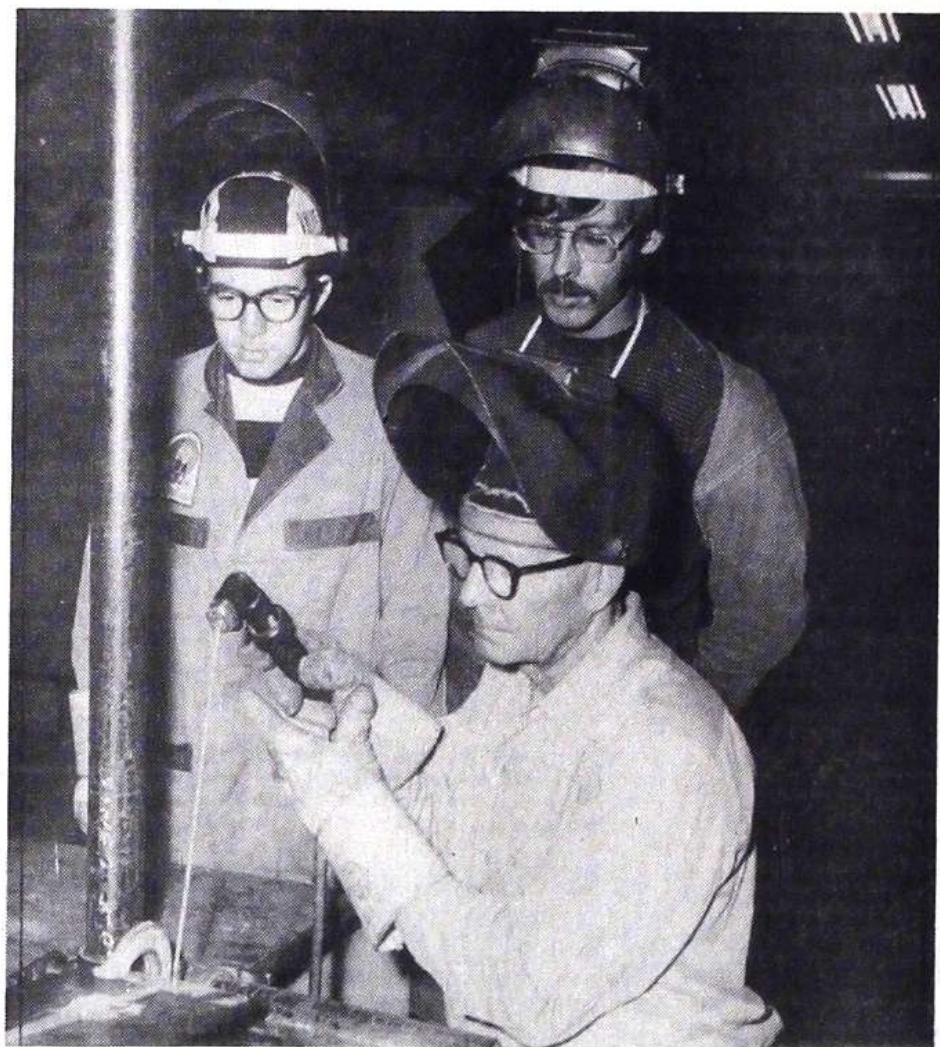

They are Mark Ellis of 930 Huron River Dr. and Donnan Silvenius of 47745 Bemis Rd.

The two-week workshop was designed to emphasize competitive forensics and bring a thorough understanding of the new debate resolution as well as a workable grasp of debate theory.

The workshop opened with a round of diagnostic testing and featured a battery of lectures concerning theory and preparation of argument. The students are now preparing for tournament competition.

Commissioners will serve on the hospital board without additional compensation. Members of the hospital board

Teacher attends seminar

William Barnes of 957 Penniman, Farmington, industrial education instructor at Romulus Senior High School, was among 19 men completing a recent one-week welding processes seminar conducted by Dow Education Systems at the Midland plant of Dow Chemical, U. S. A.

Taught by Dow welding specialists, the course covered theory and applications of the latest and most advanced welding equipment and methods used in industry today. This was offered in conjunction with Central Michigan University and was part of Barnes' efforts to keep up-to-date in his area of specialization.

Welding instructors from 15 other communities in Michigan also attended the course.

Swimming badges earned

In conjunction with the summer swimming program sponsored by the Van Buren Township Department of Recreation, Boy Scout Advanced Swimming merit badge training was offered.

Nine scouts from Boy Scout Troop 793 of Belleville recently completed the requirements for the swimming merit badge. They are:

Roy Allen, Jim Lentz, Joe Haynes, Mark Lauth, Dave Clay, Paul Lauth, Mark Innes, Harold Innes and Randy McNally.

Dave Long, Van Buren township swimming instructor, is a registered BSA merit badge counselor.

If there are other boys and troops interested in completing the training for any of the swimming or life saving merit badges, they may call the Van Buren Township Hall (941-0434) and contact William A. Loyd, recreation director, or Long.

Bank earnings increase

Southeastern Michigan Holding Co., the parent company of Security Bank and Trust Co., reported a 5.2 per cent increase in consolidated earnings, before securities transactions, for the first half of 1972.

The holding company's earnings before security gains rose to $1,280,476, an increase of $63,318 over the same period a year ago.

The earnings per share, before securities transactions, rose to $2.03 up 10 cents over the same period a year ago.

Lowell L. Peacock, president of the Southgate-based Co., reported that the first half results were particularly gratifying because the reorganization expenses of establishing the holding company are included in the 1972 figures. The bank's earnings for the first six months, exclusive of the holding company, were $2.12 per share.

Assistant school chief named in Romulus

The appointment of a new assistant superintendent of schools for the Romulus Community School District has been announced by Supt. Robert L. McConaghy.

He is James M. Garfield, 45, former school superintendent of the Creftwood School District in Dearborn Heights.

Garfield, who has approximately two decades of experience in the educational field, resides with his family at 15015 W. Cross St., Ypsilanti. He has already assumed his new duties. A widower, he is the father of three children. His wife, Elizabeth, died two years ago.

The Romulus Board of Education has approved a one-year employment contract with Garfield.

The new assistant superintendent was born in Ann Arbor. He holds a B.A. and an M.A. in geography from the Eastern Michigan University and an M.A. in educational administration from the University of Michigan. He also holds an education specialist degree from EMU.

Prior to assuming his duties with the Creftwood School District, Garfield was director of instruction for the Willow Run School District, principal for the district's high school and assistant principal for the junior high school.

In addition to his teaching duties at Willow Run School District, Garfield was the director of outdoor recreation programs for the Willow Run School District, where he was employed for a period of 15 years.

Garfield fills the vacancy caused by the departure of William E. Jakad, 54, of Plymouth, who was granted a year's health leave by the school board.

City assessor gets extension for residency

Harold L. Reiner, Romulus city assessor, has been granted an extension to comply with the city's new Residency Ordinance, which became effective Aug. 4.

At last Thursday's council meeting, Reiner presented a written request for an extension from Aug. 24 until Sept. 17.

The council approved the request when informed by Reiner he has sold his current mobile home and his new apartment residence in the city will not be ready for occupancy until three or four weeks.

The recent Detroit Edison Co. labor dispute delayed the installation of all electrical equipment.

The city council recently granted extensions ranging from 25 days to six months to some other city employees for various "important" reasons.

The city council adopted the residency law in August, 1971, requiring all city employees to be Romulus residents by Aug. 4, 1972.

A communication from Local 214 of the Teamsters, State, County and Municipal Workers was officially received by the council Thursday night.

The communication, from Jack Cant, chief steward for Local 214, asked the council to withhold any action on the enforcement of the new residency law as it relates to union-covered employees until litigation presently in the courts involving the Detroit Police Officers Association is settled.

The communication was directed to the city attorney by the council with instruction to have a legal report on the request at the next council meeting.

All-American gets wrestling job

Belleville hires 4 new coaches

A former All-American and an Eastern Michigan University track-cross country star were named this week to fill head coaching vacancies at Belleville High School.

Gerald Malecek, who hails from Belle Plaine, Iowa, and an former All-American wrestler, was picked to replace Tom Fritz as the Tigers' new head wrestling coach.

Malecek, married, and a social science teacher, wrestled varsity competition three years at Michigan State University where he captured the Big 10 titles in his last years as a 167-pounder. He also won a Big 10 trophy for most falls in a tournament. "We feel as if we have obtained the finest replacement possible for Fritz in Coach Malecek," said Harry Hidenfelter, Belleville High athletic director. "We hated to see Fritz leave, but Malecek surely has the credentials that are second to none."

As a prep in Belle Plaine, Iowa, Malecek also won state titles as a 167-pounder and was named the top athlete of the year in Belle Plaine in 1968. In college, Gerald's career continued to shine and it was climaxed when he was picked an All-American.

Fritz, who produced some outstanding preps while at Belleville, resigned to take a coaching job in the Flat Rock School District. He stated in his letter of resignation that the job would be closer to home.

Boudreau, 24, was a three-sports man as a prep at Flint St. Matthew's where he earned letters in football, basketball and track. At EMU he starred in cross country track and was awarded letters four years in both sports and was among the top runners of the team.

Last year Boudreau was employed by the Genesee County court, and he also did graduate work at EMU, giving him an opportunity to work with the varsity team.

Hidenfelter also announced the hiring of two assistant coaches: Jerry Lutri and Ted Grignon.

Lutri will serve as line coach on head football coach

Keith Emerson's staff. A bachelor who was graduated in 1965 from Stephenson High in the Upper Peninsula, Lutri was drafted by the Dallas Cowboys and played one year before being released.

A 6 foot, 4 inch, 245-pound tackle, Jerry also worked as a teacher in the Detroit Public School system and at EMU. (Continued on Second Sports)

The Dean hangs up track shoes

By TOM MOORADIAN
Daily Eagle Sports Editor

Dick Miller, the dean of area cross country coaches, has hung up his track shoes.

Unbelievable, but true.

The 37-year-old Wayne Memorial High School cross country coach and ex-track mentor has called it quits as a coach to accept a counseling post at the high school.

An exciting era came to an end with Miller's resignation.

That era, punctuated by a controversial season in 1960 which left the Zebra coach and his harriers within grasp of the state title, covered 15 years.

"It was either coaching or counseling," said Miller, "it couldn't be both. It wouldn't be fair to the kids who needed my services. I can't be at two places at once."

Miller said he had talked the situation over with George Bell, principal of the high school, and it was decided that the veteran coach would not split his time between the two demanding professions.

DICK MILLER

Miller, who was graduated from Ball State University in Muncie, Ind., where he earned his bachelor of science in education and his masters, has coached track at the high school as well as cross country.

He was assistant track coach to Don Domke, now the athletic director at Westland John Glenn, for seven years before accepting the head coaching job which he held for three years.

His most rewarding "and yet most frustrating" year as a cross country coach was 1960.

Undeclared in the Huron-Rouge League and crowned champ of that conference, Miller's harriers were robbed of the state Class A championship because of a foul up at the finish line.

"They made a mistake in scoring," said Miller. "After the first 25 runners crossed the finish line, the judges formed to chutes to score the rest of the field. However, they scored all runners who entered the 'B' chute before those who entered the 'A' chute, regardless of the actual time of finish."

"My first three runners finished in the top 25, however, our number four and five who entered into the 'A' chute finished later than my sixth man who in reality came in with a slower time but went through the 'B' chute."

The state title was awarded to Ypsilanti and Wayne was given a fourth place.

And Miller hasn't gotten over that incident yet.

Ypsilanti had finished third in the league that year while Wayne had posted its first and only perfect dual meet season. They won all eight of their meets.

Miller's teams also have finished fifth and sixth in state cross country competition.

The prep athlete has also changed over the span of 15 years, the Wayne coach feels.

"In the late fifties and early sixties you didn't have to prod athletes to get the best out of them," he said. "Though there is an occasional good individual athlete nowadays, attitude has changed."

"It was 'team effort' before and I'm afraid that that has disappeared today," Miller pointed out. "I was noted for being a tough coach and in many ways I was. I demanded the best, but I wasn't that tough so that the kids and I didn't enjoy what we were doing."

"And I think that's one of the keys to success - enjoying what you're doing."

Challenged to pick his "All-Time Wayne Memorial Team" Miller paused.

"Hey, that's tough. How about giving me a couple of days for that one. I just don't want to leave anyone out."

But slowly he let the years slip back and he dug into his memory book and pulled out the following names: Demsey Yearout, Gary Schultz, Pete Giza, Jerry Szukaitis, Johnny Miller, Pat Enes, Mike DeMara, Dennis Hamm, John Drotar, Lee Schleicher, Early Elliott, Bill Meyer, Walt Nowak and Doug Tompkins.

There is a "ringer" on the team and Miller explained: "Tompkins didn't run for us but he was our cross country student manager and assistant coach. He's just one heck of a guy and you can't have an all-time team without him."

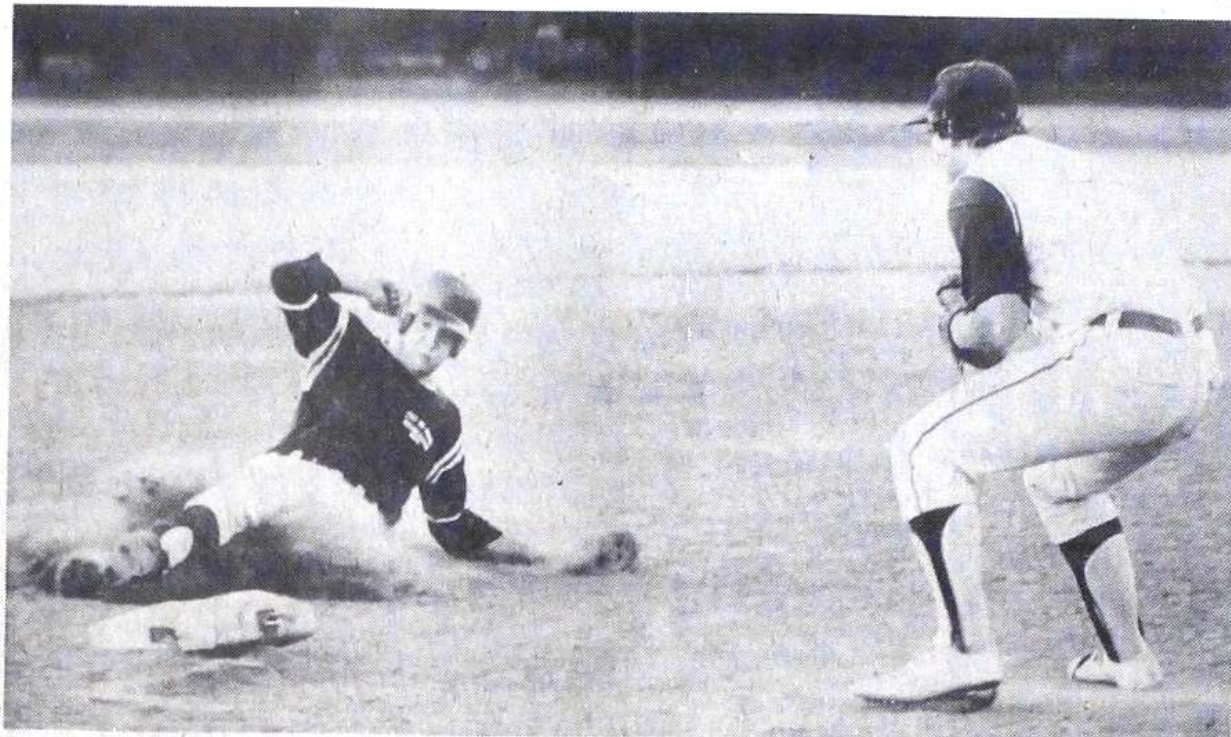

Incidentally Doug is presently student manager for the Eastern Michigan University cross country and track teams.

And Szukaitis?

Well, the ex-Miller protege is presently coaching the cross country team at John Glenn.

"Would you remind that young man that I'm six and two against his teams," said Miller. "We don't think we will have to — Jerry's the type who always remembers the score."

Yankee 400 Sunday

Two major sporting events will be held in the area just west of here Sunday.

The fourth annual Yankee 400 Stock Car Race will get underway at 12:30 p.m. at the Michigan International Speedway in Cambridge Junction while the Detroit Lions will meet the Cleveland Browns at 2 p.m. in a National Football League pre-season game at Michigan Stadium in Ann Arbor.

Most of the top drivers and cars on the National Association of Stock Car Auto Racing's (NASCAR) circuit will be on hand for the Yankee 400 at MIS.

Enterprise-Roman Sports

Wednesday, August 16, 1972

David Pearson, who won the Motor State 400 at the Irish Hills track earlier this summer, will be back with his expertly-prepared Wood Brothers' Mercury.

Pearson, who won the inaugural Yankee 400 in 1969, will be joined in the field by two other former winners — Charlie Glotzbach (1970) and Bobby Allison (1971).

Bobby Allison has won several major NASCAR races in a Chevrolet this season.

Practice for the race will begin on Thursday at 1 p.m. and will last until 4:30 p.m. that day.

The drivers can get more practice in from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m. on Friday.

The initial qualifying runs are set for 2 p.m. until 4:30 p.m. Friday with 25 cars slated to earn spots in the field.

Saturday's schedule includes practice from 9:30 a.m. until 12 noon and qualifying for the remaining 15 cars of the 40-car field from 1 p.m. until 4:30 p.m.

Michigan International Speedway is located at the junction of M-12 and M-50.

The exhibition encounter between the Lions and Browns will bring together two long-time rivals.

This will be the second professional football game played at the University of Michigan's stadium.

The Lions have a 1-1 pre-season record while the Browns are 0-2 in exhibition play.

Fans attending the game in Ann Arbor are urged to use the State Street and Saline Road exits off I-94 for easy access to the parking areas near the stadium.

Tickets, which are priced at $6 will be on sale at the gate Sunday.

Romulus' Bill Jackson wins heat at Flat Rock

Romulus' Bill Jackson maneuvered his late model stock car entry to a heat race victory in the dash last week at the Flat Rock Speedway.

In the Late Model preliminary events Joy Fair was the fastest qualifier as he sped across the finish line in 13:24.

John Anderson of Detroit won the dash, heat race, and other heat winners included Warren Stewart of Taylor, Don Montgomery of Detroit and Jackson of Romulus.

Dick Crup of Hudson captured the pursuit race with Montgomery winning the consolation event.

In the Figure 8, 15-lap feature, Dennis Pace of Plymouth proved even tougher to beat than Fair as he won his eighth feature in nine tries.

Pace was followed to the finish by Ron Howell and Lubie Allen in a slam-bang affair that saw Bob Studt of Taylor get airborne after a spectacular intersection crash while running in the fourth position.

The Flat Rock Speedway could almost be referred to as Fair's personal speedway before the 1972 season is ended. The 42-year old Pontiac veteran driver won his seventh event in nine attempts last Saturday before 3500 fans.

In capturing the 30-lap event Fair seemed to cruise along hoping that his nearest challenger, Dearborn Heights' Danny Byrd would get closer to give him some competition.

After the first lap crash which sent Crup of Hudson and Herman Meloché of Taylor to the pits with serious damage to their cars, the field was lined up for a complete restart with Fair in the 11th position.

In seven laps Joy worked his way into the lead and then held a comfortable margin over Byrd who settled for second place.

On Saturday the Late Model Stocks and Figure eight cars will be back with over 100 entries expected.

National League cops Belleville Star Game

The National League defeated the American League, 2-0, in the Belleville Little League's All-Star game.

Bruce Root struck out 13 as he blanked the American League stars.

Rob Laney accounted for both National League runs when he socked a two-run homer in the fourth inning.

Stan Trice pitched a strong game for the American League as he suffered the defeat.

Belleville will also have a new assistant basketball coach in Ted Grignon, who is equally at home on the gridiron and baseball diamond.

Grignon, a familiar name in these parts, was an All-State quarterback at Dearborn Edsel Ford and went on to collegiate fame as Western Michigan University's signal-caller.

Net title to Bajor

Jim Bajor captured the men's division championship in the annual Garden City Open Tennis Tournament at Garden City East High School.

Bajor, a student at Wayne State, won the title when he defeated top-seeded George Thompson, 6-2, 6-2, in the finals.

The Thompson-Bajor duo bested Shafer and Carver in a long three-set match.

Top-seeded Pete Verbanac copped the boy's singles crown when he defeated Romulus' Ray Eschenberger in the final.

Eschenberger and Pete Verbanac topped Mike Dimitroff and Tony Verbanac in an all-Garden City boy's doubles final.

Aggie Trisiani of Grosse Pointe topped top-seeded Diane Docker, 6-2, 6-2 in the women's singles final.

The two singles finalists later teamed up to beat Wanda Dockery and Debbie Zol for the women's doubles crown.

Lynn Korte defeated Laurie Dimitroff for the championship in the girl's singles competition.

Only non-state resident on Penn State's baseball team is pitcher Len Bartek, a freshman from Succasunna, N.J.

THE NAME GAME — Canton Township's constable Gene Reaves displays scores of autographs he has accumulated since 1920. The 70-year-old Reaves has won national fame as the "Autograph King of the World" and with over 21,000 autographs in his possession, there are no known challengers to his throne.

Jaycees' golf set

The Romulus Jaycees Golf Tournament has been set for Wednesday, Sept. 13 at the Shady Hollow Golf Club, located at S. Wayne and Wick Roads.

The one-day event will include full golf privileges, meals and refreshments.

Starting times for the open golf event will be from 7 a.m. until 10 a.m.

For further information and tickets contact Rod Hanna, program chairman, at 728-1042 any week day evening.

Southpaws to stage own golf tourney

The most famous line from Henry Clay, the Great Compromiser, is: "I'd rather be right than be president." Left-handed golfers in Michigan may feel the same. But take heart, southpaws. There is finally a tournament exclusively for you, and if you're a righthander you can't enter, even if you're the president.

The first annual Michigan Left-handed Open Golf Championship will be held Aug. 26-27 at Hidden Valley Club at Gaylord.

So far host pro Bill Wallace has received 25 entries and it looks as if almost all of them will be of the weekend duffer variety.

"I think there are only three left-handers in the Michigan PGA Professional Golfers Association and I am one of them," he explained. "I think there are only 30 left-handed pros in the country. So just about everyone entered will be an amateur."

"Left-handers don't get much of a break," he said. "There aren't many tournaments for them."

Gary Schultz, a free agent member of the 1972 Detroit Lions, was the first Wayne State University grifter to be selected to a CoSIDA Academic All-America first team berth in 1971.

"They used to be held years ago. The Detroit Golf Association used to run one, but that was dropped. Clubs hold tournaments if they would make money off it. But there aren't many left-handers so the clubs feel it wouldn't be profitable."

Pete Brown, a Detroit who has won more than $168,000 since he joined the pro tour in 1963, has entered. But beyond him the field should not keep half-way decent amateur linksmen away.

Wallace said one zero handicap amateur has entered, plus one with a four handicap.

"After that the handicaps just go up," he said. "Mostly weekend-type golfers will compete."

Wallace has competed in national left-handed tournaments with 300 other entrants.

"They used to have a pro division, but not any more," he said.

The 36-hole medal play state southpaw championship will have a first prize of $200-if a pro wins.

Jim Standish III, executive director of the Golf Association of Michigan, said he could not think of any other offbeat golf tourneys around the state, except for an annual tournament at Battle Creek exclusively for amputees.

Gene Reaves is called the "Autograph King of the World." And the Canton Township constable earned the title by nudging past hundreds of fans, writing to thousands of celebrities in order to accumulate a collection that has over 21,000 signatures.

And one of his prize collections is the 28 autographs and pictures of the former heavyweight champions of the world, beginning with the first recognized champ, Paddy Ryan (1882) to the reigning ruler, Joe Frazier.

"I was fortunate enough to get some of the autographs in person," said the 70-year-old Reaves who looks like he's in his early fifties. "I met Jack Demsey in Florida and also Muhammed Ali (nee Cassius Clay) and they were kind enough to give me their autographs."

Reaves said his love of boxing goes back to his childhood days. He boxed as an amateur and later organized clubs for youngsters to learn the sport.

"In fact, at one time we were able to utilize the facilities of the Naval Army in Detroit. Would you believe at one time we even had Joe Louis in one of our groups?"

Louis, the "Brown Bomber" held the heavyweight title for nearly two decades during the late thirties and forties.

Decorating the walls of their trailer are more than 600 photos of athletes and movie stars.

Reaves' reputation as an autograph hound reached national prominence this year when he was asked to appear on the Goodson-Todman Enterprises' "To Tell the Truth."

"Though the show hasn't appeared on the local channels as yet," said Reaves, "it has run in Flint and Florida. In fact a man called me from Florida a couple of weeks ago whom I hadn't seen in ages and said that 'I hadn't changed a bit.'"

Reaves said that Channel 7 is due to feature the show within the next 30 days.

Married to Madelyn, the Reaves have one daughter who is married. They make their home at 39500 W. Warren in the Royal Holiday Mobil Park in Canton Township.

"We were the first couple to move into this court," said Reaves. "When we moved in there wasn't any gas or any other convenience."

Reaves, a retired auto auctioneer, also loves to build miniature cars.

"I built the first child's miniature racing car in Detroit," said Reaves, "it was three to five feet long and was powered by a three horsepower continental engine."

One of Reaves' models, which was five-feet long and less than 20 inches high won him the "Gold Hammer Award." The award was presented to him by Mechanics Illustrated magazine in 1952 for "building the world's fastest and smallest car."

"I never made any money on the cars," recalled Reaves, "but we had a lot of fun putting them together. All we did is meet a lot of interesting people while working on them."

One of Reaves' diminutive machines carried the lovely actress Ruth Hampton who starred in Johnnie Dark, a racing movie which also starred Tony Curtis.

"Miss Hampton managed to get in one of those small cars of mine and she attracted a lot of attention. She was at the old Michigan Theater and the fans flocked in to look."

Oh, yes, Gene didn't let the beautiful actress get away without giving him her autograph.

Salmon Derby set

Will a new world record be set?

That's what the sponsors of the first annual "American Salmon Derby" will be held at Ludington, Michigan, are wondering.

Officials of Michigan's Department of Natural Resources seem to feel that there is an excellent chance that a new world's record Coho salmon could be taken during the course of the contest from August 19 through September 4th.

The current Coho record is thirty-one pounds even, and was caught by Mrs. Lee Hallberg on Oct. 11, 1947 at Cowichan Bay, British Columbia.

With a $10,000 first prize at stake for the largest salmon (Coho or Chinook), combined with an abundant food supply for salmon over the past few years, it would seem probable that there is every chance for a new record to be set.

Fishing enthusiasts interested in participating in this exciting Derby may enter by sending the $5.00 registration fee along with a stamped, self-addressed envelope to: American Salmon Derby, P.O. Box 1000, Ludington, Michigan 49431. They can obtain additional information and details by calling - 616-845-6777.

Canton gridders to play in Plymouth

Boys between the ages of nine and 12 who reside in Canton Township are now eligible to play for the Plymouth teams in the area's Vince Lombardi Junior Football League.

A player's age is determined as of September 1, 1972.

The minimum weight for a player is 65 pounds and the maximum weight is 105 pounds.

Plymouth expects to field two teams in the Vince Lombardi League this fall.

Registration for the league will end soon and Canton residents who are interested in playing should contact Sam Hassen, the director of registration, at 455-7777 for further information as soon as possible.

Tigers

TIES DECK TO HOME — Deck and carport become the strong visual element in this home when 1-by-8-inch beveled cedar siding is applied horizontally over deck rail, wrapped slightly around fireplace and stained to match house. Deck invites outdoor activities at main level while sheltering vehicle below. Workbench, supported by 6-by-6 inch deck posts, is convenient for unloading car.

IMPROVE YOUR HOME

Wood deck ties room to home, adds balance

For a young couple starting married life, there is one big advantage to buying a home at the earliest possible time. The sooner they jump into the sea of payments, the sooner they'll step on the other shore, home free.

But the couple who buys a house for two may find that four fill it to the brim. Even if the number of rooms adds up, they may no longer feel comfortable under an increasing burden of belongings.

wood deck in the "L" between wings.

Not only a delight for coffee and casual meals, the deck was also the design stroke that tied the new dining room to the rest of the house and gave gracious balance to the entire structure.

Railings sided inside and out with 1-by-8-inch beveled cedar dramatically stretch the line of the house over a carport at lower level.

Deck construction includes watertight roofing over the carport which is just off the backyard and handy for unloading garden supplies.

Six-by-six-inch cedar posts are sunk in twos — one straight, one angled out — to support the outside edge of the deck. A long work and unloading bench of 2-by-6s stretches between the posts.

The lower carport often doubles as a covered play area off the rec room, but the family plans to buy a camper soon, and the space is ready for it.

Here's the Answer

Q. — Several years ago I took several layers of varnish off some old furniture, using regular varnish remover. The result was pretty good, but it was one of the messiest jobs I ever did. Someone has told me that it is possible to take off old varnish with a propane torch. Is this possible?

A. — Yes, it is possible, but if not done by a professional, there is a definite fire hazard. When it is done, the propane torch is used with a special burner tip called a flame spreader. Another way to burn off an old finish is with one of the electric tools that does not have an open flame.

Despite your experience, using a varnish remover is the safest way to remove an old finish. Some of the removers are the wash-off type, permitting the old varnish to be washed off rather than scraped off after it has been softened. Several applications may be necessary if there are three or four coats of varnish on the furniture. Whatever type you use, be sure to follow the manufacturer's recommendations on precautions to observe as well as how the surface should be treated after the old finish is gone.

opinion of how it dries very quickly, don't go back over areas already done. About four hours should elapse between coats. Two or three thin coats are better than one thick coat. Sand lightly between coats and also after the final coat.

Shellack deteriorates after a few months, so buy only as much as will be needed for the job. Shellack that has aged too long will not dry properly. Be sure to clean the brush with denatured alcohol immediately after use.

The uses of shellack, lacquer, varnish, bleach remover and stain are detailed in Andy Lang's helpful booklet "Wood finishing in the home," which can be obtained by sending 30 cents and a long, stamped self-addressed envelope to Know-how, P.O. Box 477, Huntington, N.Y. 11743.

Burglary insurance available, pamphlet informs homeowners

"Pick A Lock Before Someone Picks Yours" is the catchy title of a new Better Business Bureau pamphlet explaining the State Crime Insurance Program.

Many people now shudder at the thought of leaving their homes at night, afraid to return to a burglary—without insurance coverage. It's not that these people don't want protection, but prior to the law, the insurance was not available or too expensive.

Metropolitan Detroit, explained that the booklet was published in order to alert home owners without insurance to the availability of protection under the State Crime Insurance Program. The booklet is a handy guide to the questions of What? Where? Why? and How? Not only does it spell out the law in simple language, but pictures are included to help identify the type of locks which are needed to qualify for insurance.

C. Lane Breidenstein, president of the Better Business Bureau of Study helps storage

Before constructing an outdoor storage unit, check local building regulations for any restrictions, then carefully survey future needs to assure adequate space for mowers, tools, firewood or other items.

Separating equipment and materials to be stored into categories such as tall or bulky will indicate dimensions of enclosures that will be needed. This in turn will determine if the storage unit will fit into garage or carport, or if a freestanding structure is needed.

Plan for future expansion as more gardening equipment is acquired. Doors must be wide enough so that large articles can be moved easily.

Most storage units, regardless of size, have structural similarities, such as framing of easy-to-work 2x4-inch western woods.

Shelves, racks, doors and siding also are of western wood. Where heavy loads or appearance are not factors, a lower grade may be used to hold down costs. Wood members that will be in contact with the ground should be preservative-treated.

This new insurance is available through an act of the State Legislature. Anyone who could not afford existing insurance policies, or did not qualify for coverage because of location, are now eligible under the new state program.

The insurance provides coverage in amounts of $1,000, $2,000, $3,000 and $5,000, at rates ranging from $50 to $80 a year in Wayne, Oakland, Macomb and Washtenaw counties and $40 to $70 in the remainder of the state. This insurance, although still costly, is the first chance many residents have had to obtain burglary and robbery protection at a cost considerably less than previously existing rates.

Breidenstein also pointed out that the booklet contains a warning to the community. The BBB cautions residents that this new bill may bring many "fly-by-night" and dishonest salesmen into the area. They may have cheap locks and do a bad job of installing them, or they may lie about the law and say you need more expensive locks or other devices than you really do need.

Individuals wishing to obtain this crime insurance should shop carefully for the locks necessary. If locks are purchased which do not meet state minimum standards and a loss claim is later made, the claim will not be paid.

Individuals who want to equip their homes with more expensive locks or other special devices are advised to shop carefully and to know the reputation and reliability of the firm which sells the equipment or installs it. If in doubt, check with the Better Business Bureau to see if it has a record of customer experience with the company.

Individuals may obtain this booklet free while the supply lasts. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Crime Insurance, BBB of Metropolitan Detroit, Inc. 150 Michigan Ave. Detroit, Mich., 48226.

washer cut away

Dear Al:

Reader A.V. who keeps several different-sized metal washers on his key chain as pocket screwdrivers could do this with only one washer. I took a fairly thick washer and cut out sections of it, leaving blade-sized parts sticking out. Then I used a grinding wheel to shape the blades and make them different thicknesses. This handy tool goes on my key chain, too, but doesn't weight me down. D.W.

Dear Al:

If Junior's new bike has to stay outside, protect it from the rain like I did. I bought a plastic drop cloth from the paint store. I cut it to size and outlined the edges with magnetic tape. The magnetic tape holds onto the kickstand, the rims and other metal parts and keeps the waterproof plastic in place so it can't blow away. Sure beats giving up garage space for the bike. J.S.A.

A super hint - The folks who make wall paneling have made it so easy that it takes real effort to botch up a job. Probably the easiest way to make it look amateurish is to let your hammer slip a few times and leave dents in the beautiful paneling. One way to prevent this is to use a scrap of pegboard as a shield. The headless finishing nails will go through the holes in the pegboard. Place the scrap over the nail after you've tapped it in place. Then you can hammer away, and if you goof, the hammer will strike the scrap. After the nail has been driven flush with the pegboard, lift it up and drive the nail on in with a nail set.

CARROLL RICHTER'S

horoscope

Tomorrow's forecast from the Carroll Richter Institute

General tendencies: You are now overly eager to travel or in some way to expand your interests and extend yourself far beyond your present sphere of activity. Make sure, however, that during the morning you force nothing and that you do not get into any arguments. Then the rest of the day and evening are just great for you.

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You are apt to want to use force to get something you want very badly, but use diplomacy instead. Make some new contacts who are worthwhile. Go to the right source for the information you want.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) Although the morning may be trying, do not indulge in self-pity, and later you can have much fun with the one you love. Your intuition is not good during day, but fine tonight. So be sure to follow it then.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Morning could prove difficult, but show you can still smile. Later in the day you can make better arrangements with a good associate. Know what your true position is with mate, others. Then you realize what is best to do.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) If you stop deliberating about that work ahead of you and delve right into it, you get it done for once and for all. Show you are most efficient. Plan time for rest in p.m., instead of going out and getting overtired.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) Steer clear of one who has an eye on your assets during day and then be off with congenials for the amusements you desire. Show thoughtfulness for mate and come to a better understanding. Good manners are most important now.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Showing consideration and thoughtfulness to those who dwell with you brings fine results now. Handle some basic matter well, though it requires some effort on your part. Prove you are an efficient person.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Make preparations early to see good pals and business allies so you know exactly what to say and do. You can confer with one who can help you advance very quickly.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Money matters are very important to you today, so get into all the ramifications of such early and watch the improvement by p.m. Listen to what a clever business expert has to suggest. Follow good advice.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Handle personal affairs with others in a most diplomatic and intelligent way now, and this will help you advance. The afternoon is excellent for entertaining, or accepting some fine invitation extended to you.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Much care in motion of any kind should be exercised now. Plan your activities for the near future most intelligently and widen your horizons. Get the suggestions you need from one who is an expert in your particular field of endeavor.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Avoid that pal who likes to argue a good deal and get together with people who can help you be more productive. Personal affairs should be put off to the evening hours. Then handle them wisely.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) The morning is apt to be rather difficult, but later in the day you can take care of both career and civic matters efficiently. Find the right system for handling one who is vital to your happiness and welfare. Early to bed tonight.

If your child is born today he or she will be one of those highly sensitive young people who needs harmony and happiness in the environment early in life so the nervous system can strengthen itself naturally. Then your offspring can become a most vibrant and efficient person. An academic education is best here, since the mind is definite and thorough; then upon maturity fine opportunities will be seized and much made of them. Provide good religious background.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you.

These team managers rate first in his book

To the editor:

Nice guys don't always finish last. I know of a couple of the nicest who finished second. Their names are Les Smith and Shelby Hall, and they managed the Expos Farm Team for the Belleville Little League. My son was fortunate enough to play ball for them this year.

They gave the boys a lot of their time all year. They taught them more than just baseball. They showed them how to be good sports. They played all their boys in every game all year.

And when it came down to the last games, that's how they played them. They wanted to win first place, but not enough to leave some of the boys on the bench.

To me they typify what Little League is all about. The boys are there to play ball, so let them. They aren't all the best players, but they all try their best.

owe men like Mr. Smith and Mr. Hall a lot. It just isn't enough to say thanks to them.

I hope the whole association would take a look at some of the harm it can do a boy. A couple of years ago, my oldest son played five or six innings all year. I've seen a boy cry this year because the manager wouldn't use him in the game.

Winning meant too much to him, I guess. So when men like Mr. Smith and Mr. Hall do come along, I think they should be publicly thanked.

Ron Schoefield
Sumpter Township.

What's good for one isn't good for another?

To the editor:

Guess who is calling the kettle black? None other than Mickey Reel! In your Romulus Roman issue of Aug. 2, 1972, you printed a letter from Mr. Reel in which he criticized certain candidates for tacking their political posters on poles, trees, etc.

Well, Tuesday morning, Aug. 8 (the date of the primary election), shortly after 7 a.m., Mr. Reel and a friend of his were tacking their candidates posters on public school property (Harrison School), and on the electric poles across street from the school. It seems that Mr. Reel thinks everyone else should heed his criticisms, but he is "Privileged" to do as he pleases.

I spoke to Mr. Reel and told him that I read his letter in the Romulus Roman and I would write a letter telling everyone what I had seen. He told me he knew the editor of the Romulus Roman and he would ask you personally to print my letter.

Mrs. Irene H. Tryon
Romulus

P.S. Does he really know you?

EXECUTIVE EDITOR'S NOTE — Yes, Mr. Reel knows our editor of the Romulus Roman. However, he has not contacted us about this letter. And if he had, we would have printed it with or without his "consent."

Defeated candidate urges better turn-out

To the Editor:

I wish to thank the people of Van Buren Township who supported me in this last primary election. Even though I was not a winner for a trustee position on the Van Buren township board, I will continue my effort to fight for honest representative government in our community and bring to light anything that may be in the public's interest.

I also feel that the people should vote "yes" this coming November on the lake and park issue, because my research indicates there are many ways whereby the park can be financed without any tax increase.

I would also like to have seen a much heavier turn-out of the voters in our area and hope that the November election will see the people in the township speak by the votes they themselves cast. This way the people elected will know that the public does care about what they say and do on that board.

I feel the people who have been elected to run by the public are good and whoever will be the final victors should have the knowledge they are duly elected officials, supported by the majority of the people in the township, so they will do a much better job for us all.

Newspaper's efforts appreciated in city

To the editor:

Just a short note to thank you for your support and efforts to promote our community school program throughout the past several months.

This week marks my first complete year with the Romulus Schools, and we are anticipating another successful program for the approaching school year.

Each week our office sends out clippings from your paper. Maybe in such a way we, in turn, help promote your activities and the Romulus Roman.

The Datsun 510 is a champion. It's also a wagon.

Datsun 510 Sedan. Winner: 1970 East African Safari. Winner: 1971 2.5 Trans-Am championship. Datsun 510 is also available as a wagon, with lots of the features that help us win races. Overhead cam engine. Safety front disc brakes. Solid unibody construction. Plus, comforts you expect: all-vinyl interior. Tinted glass. Whitewalls. And more, included in the price. If you need a hard-working wagon, drive Datsun 510. It sure beats whatever's second.
